

Establish Pay and Hour Standards, Ban Child Labor, Roosevelt's Plea

Wants Congress to Fix Minimum Wages, Maximum Hours

BILL IS PREPARED

Says Only 'Hopelessly Reactionary' Will Fight Plan

Washington — (AP) — President Roosevelt asked congress today for a flexible labor law providing minimum wages, maximum hours and a ban on products of child labor and of employers who exploit unorganized labor.

"All but the hopelessly reactionary," the president said in a special message, "will agree that to conserve our primary resources of man power, government must have some control over maximum hours, minimum wages, the evil of child labor and the exploitation of unorganized labor."

He did not specify any standards in his long awaited substitute for the invalidated national industrial recovery act. He left this for congress to work out.

Bill Introduced

Immediately after his message was read at the capitol a bill was introduced by Chairman Connery (D-Mass.) of the house labor committee and Chairman Black (D-Ala.) of the senate labor committee to put the president's proposals into effect.

As first described by Connery the bill called for a 40-cent an hour standard for maximum hours.

A short time later, however, Connery produced a substitute measure which left the pay rate and the length of the work week blank, thus putting up to congress responsibility for fixing the wage and hour standards.

Five-Man Board

Chairman Connery announced a five-man labor standards board would be created to administer it.

"Briefly stated, without regard to details," Connery said in a statement, "the bill proposes to ban from the channels of interstate commerce the products of child labor and of workers employed for unduly long hours, or under conditions which violate the rights of labor by the use of strike-breakers or spies."

The labor board would have broad power to adjust these limitations for individual industries.

No Big Obstacles

Allowing for a few exceptional trades and permitting longer hours on the payment of time and a half for overtime, the president said a "general maximum working week" should not "be difficult to define."

"Allowing for appropriate qualifications and general classifications by administrative action," he added, "it should also be possible to put some floor below which the wage ought not to fall."

"There should be no difficulty in ruling out the products of children from any fair market."

"And there should also be little dispute when it comes to ruling out of the interstate markets products of employers who deny to their workers the right of self-organization and collective bargaining, whether through the fear of labor spies, the bait of company unions, or the use of strike-breakers."

"The abuses disclosed by the investigations of the senate must be promptly curbed."

The president said the proposed federal legislation should be "a stimulus and not a hindrance to state action."

States Must Act

Although a good portion of the goods of American industry move in interstate commerce and will be covered by the legislation recommended, he said there were many purely local pursuits and services which no federal legislation could effectively cover.

"No state is justified," he said, "in sitting idly by and expecting the federal government to meet state responsibility for those labor conditions with which the state may effectively deal without fear of unneighborly competition from sister states."

"Our problem," he said, "is to work out in practice those labor standards which will permit the maximum but prudent employment of our human resources to bring within the reach of the average man and woman a standard of good and of services conducive to the fulfillment of the promise of American life."

"Legislation can, I hope, be passed at this session of the congress further to help those who toil in factory and on farm. We have promised it. We can not stand still."

Message Asking Congress To Draft Labor Standards

Washington — (AP) — The text of President Roosevelt's labor message to congress follows:

To the congress of the United States:

The time has arrived for us to take further action to extend the frontiers of social progress. Such further action initiated by the legislative branch of the government, administered by the executive, and sustained by the judicial, is within the common sense frame work and purpose of our constitution, and receives beyond doubt the approval of our electorate.

The overwhelming majority of our population earns its daily bread either in agriculture or in industry. One-third of our population, the overwhelming majority of which is in agriculture or industry, is ill-nourished, ill-clad, and ill-housed.

The overwhelming majority of this nation has little patience with that small minority which vociferates today that prosperity has returned, that wages are good, that crop prices are high and that government should take a holiday.

The truth of the matter, of course, is that the exponents of the theory of private initiative as the cure for depressed national life want in most cases to improve the lot of mankind. But, well intentioned as they may be, they fail for four evident reasons — first, they see the problem from the point of view of their own business; second, they see the problem from the point of view of their own locality or region; third, they can not act unannouncedly because they have machinery for agreement among themselves; and, finally, they have no power to bind the inevitable minority of chiselers within their own ranks.

Though we may go far in admitting the innate decency of this small minority, the whole story of our nation proves that

Public Works Fund Battle May Delay Ballot on Relief

House Not Likely to Vote On Bill Before Late Tuesday

Washington — (AP) — Efforts to earmark funds for public works, highways and flood relief threatened delay today to final house approval of the $1,500,000,000 relief bill.

Democratic leaders said debate over these suggestions probably would prevent a final vote before late tomorrow.

Representative Butler (D-N.Y.) sought to set aside $300,000,000 for public works. Representative Cartwright (D-Okla.) backed a proposal to use $150,000,000 for road construction, and Representative Crowe (D-Ind.) urged making $50,000,000 available for grants to Ohio valley flood sufferers.

Administration leaders opposed all these proposed directions.

The house tentatively set the prospective relief expenditures for next year at $1,500,000,000—the amount which President Roosevelt requested. It voted down on Friday efforts to both to increase and to cut it.

Fight In Senate

Advocates of a larger appropriation served notice, however, their fight would be continued in the senate.

Senators and representatives from the rust bowl area, asserting farmers of their section faced another disastrous year, said they would ask for another billion dollars for drought relief.

Renewed demands for return of relief money to local communities came from Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee. He said a radio address that paying the unemployed a dole rather than continuing present relief activities would save $400,000,000 of every billion dollars being spent by relief agencies.

The senate labor committee approved a bill authorizing a federal study to determine the best means of administering relief.

Three Killed in Two Accidents in Michigan

Marquette, Mich. — (AP) — Three persons were killed in two auto crashes yesterday.

George DeRoche and Eric Rundman, Ishpeming, lost their lives when their car collided with a truck driven by Robert Dagnais, Marquette. Four others riding with DeRoche and Rundman were injured slightly.

John Steinberger, Marquette, died of injuries received as the car driven by his son left the road and crashed into a tree. The accident happened near Carlsend.

Contrary to usual procedure, snapshots made by holding camera at unusual angles often make the best pictures. In this way it is possible to "see" a picture which never thought existed before. # Soviet Airman Preparing for Flight to U.S.

Will be First to Use North Pole Base for Take-off to America

CHOSEN BY STALIN

Four Explorers Ready to Stay at Permanent Settlement for Year

Moscow — (AP) — Sigismund Levanevsky, American-trained soviet pilot, tuned up his crack Douglas transport plane today for a dash across the North pole to the United States.

Levanevsky was disclosed to have been designated by Josef Stalin himself to make the first use of the permanent North pole base established by soviet explorers as a prerequisite to the long projected air route over the top of the world from Moscow to San Francisco.

Officials based their hopes of success on the meteorological observations being completed at the North pole base which the soviet expedition headed by Dr. Otto J. Schmidt reached in a flight from Rudolf Island Friday afternoon.

Three supply planes were held at Rudolf Island, 560 miles from the pole, awaiting word the polar weather had cleared. Aboard the planes were the supplies and scientific equipment to enable four of the eleven explorers to hold the permanent settlement for a year before handing over their task to four others.

The party was drifting slowly about the polar sea on a huge ice floe 12 miles from the pole itself. Although the fliers circled over the pole before landing Friday, the pole proper has not been touched by the party. The men were too busy finishing unloading their equipment, erecting camp and storing supplies to attempt a trek to the earth's hub.

The preliminary flight was disclosed by Dr. Schmidt to have been made May 5 when a plane carrying four men surveyed the site and "determined that heavier planes could land."

Carry Equipment

The three supply planes now held at Rudolf because of poor visibility at the poles will carry eight tons of equipment, including a power-generating windmill, a year's food and the specially made winter house in which the four "first inhabitants" will live for the year.

No indication was given as to when Levanevsky might hop off on the Arctic journey although he has been engaged in the test flight for some weeks.

He brought the Douglas transport, which is generally accepted he will use, back from the United States where he has studied and worked in aviation factories. Last week he flew from Moscow to Odesa, on the Black sea, in 10 hours with seven passengers.

Levanevsky attempted a polar flight from Moscow to America in 1935 but failed.

In 1936, he made a successful flight from California to Moscow by way of Canada, Alaska and Siberia.

Third Son Born to Lindberghs May 12 At Home in England

Cleveland — (AP) — The birth of a third son to Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh—on coronation night, May 12—was announced today by Miss Anne S. Cutter, Mrs. Lindbergh's aunt.

Miss Cutter said her mother, Mrs. Charles L. Cutter of Cleveland, was advised of the birth in a letter from Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother and Mrs. Cutter's daughter.

"The letter only stated that a son had been born," Miss Cutter said.

The baby presumably was born in the rambling English house, "Long Barn," Sevenoaks, Kent, in which the Lindberghs have sought solitude more than a year. They fled there in December, 1935, before Bruno Richard Hauptmann died in the New Jersey electric chair for the kidnap murder of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., their first-born.

Secrecy just as deep as that which surrounded the Lindberghs' departure from New York enveloped the home in Kent. All inquiries were turned aside.

Reports reaching the embassy, however, indicated Mrs. Lindbergh's health was good.

The baby's name was not learned. The parents have six weeks from the date of birth in which to register the fact in Kent.

Rebels Threaten Highway Junction

Capture of Lemona Would Bring Troops to Basque Fortifications

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier — (AP) — Spanish insurgent troops today threatened the important highway junction of Lemona, only a mile from besieged Bilbao's "iron ring" defense line, after a quick thrust through rugged territory southeast of the Biscayan capital.

The capture of Lemona, where the Victoria and Durango highways join, would bring General Emilio Mola's insurgents face to face with the Basque fortifications upon which government forces have pinned their last hope of saving Bilbao.

Three villages, Yurre, Dena and Manaria, fell before the insurgent advance "mopping up" the area south of Durango and Amorebieta. Insurgent gains in this sector were admitted by the Basque defense council, but the advance was said to have cost heavy casualties to the attackers.

The Basque defenses were strengthened materially, however, with the appearance of a strong unit of government airplanes at Bilbao: they were believed to be the 15 aircraft which landed in France last week, having overtopped their mark, and were permitted to return to Spain Saturday. Low clouds during the morning kept aerial forces grounded.

Police Attacked When They Arrest Dancer

Milwaukee — (AP) — The cash customers did not like it when two members of the police morals squad provided an unexpected climax to the strip tease dance of Donna Lu Pac.

In fact, they demonstrated their disapproval — with gestures — and followed through on the gestures.

The two policemen, Eddies Baker and Edward Metz, started for the stage just as the dancer was preparing to glide from the spotlight's glare after the undraping performance—when crash—a beer mug hit Baker in the head. This was followed by a kick in the shins. Other beer mugs sailed through the air.

John C. Rife, listed as a patron, stepped one of them with his face. The only one who refused to be composed was Donna. Police said she took her arrest calmly.

Henry Kummer, 53, was arrested as a beer glass thrower, and Erich Schwartz, proprietor, as the sponsor of Donna's dance. The three were booked on open charges.

Principal Provisions of Age Pension, Unemployment Insurance Measures

Washington — (AP) — Key points of the social security act at issue in supreme court:

Old Age Pensions

Establishes federal pensions for more than 26,000,000 workers after they reach 65.

Monthly checks ranging from $10 to $85 slated to begin going out in January, 1942.

Workers and their employers pay the bill in taxes on the first $3,000 of wages paid each man in a year.

Total tax amounts to 2 per cent this year, rising to 6 per cent in 1942 and thereafter, worker and employer sharing the burden.

Eligible workers include those in factories, shops, mines, offices, full or part time, paid by hour, piece work or on commission.

Ineligible workers include farm and domestic help, seamen, federal or state employees, or those of religious and charitable organizations.

No pension paid in months when a man works.

Amount of pension depends on amount of taxes paid. It is one-half of 1 per cent of first $3,000 in wages, one-twelfth of 1 per cent of next $45,000, and a twenty-fourth of 1 per cent of a twenty-over $45,000.

This means a man who averaged $18 a week for 30 years would collect $35.90 a month after retirement at 65. If he died on that birthday, his estate would get $82.80.

Unemployment Insurance

Federal government leaves establishment and administration of insurance to states.

All employers of eight or more persons for 20 weeks or more are taxed, but employers can deduct from the tax—up to 90 per cent of its amount—what they pay into state insurance fund.

Now 2 per cent, federal tax will rise to 3 per cent permanently in 1938. State taxes differ.

Florida, Illinois and Missouri are only state lacking insurance. About 18,500,000 workers are protected by 45 state laws.

In general, wages paid to workers exempted from old age pension taxes are not taxed from Washington for unemployment insurance.

State benefits amount generally to half of worker's wage, but not more than $15 for about 15 weeks.

Name Fond du Lac Man President of Valley Dentists

Dr. C. J. Reinardy Succeeds Dr. H. F. O'Brien As Head of Society

Dr. C. J. Reinardy, Fond du Lac, was elected president of the Fox River Valley Dental society at the thirty-fourth annual convention at Knights of Pythias hall this morning. He succeeds Dr. H. F. O'Brien, Appleton.

Dr. L. J. McCarty, Neenah, was named vice president. Dr. R. L. Klaeser, Oshkosh, reelected secretary-treasurer; Dr. G. V. Bowhouse, Fond du Lac, and Dr. J. F. Morrell, Oshkosh, members of the executive council. The 1938 convention will be held at Fond du Lac.

President's Address

The morning program of the 1-day convention opened with the president's address by Dr. O'Brien at 9 o'clock. Dr. Elmer J. Sundby, Duluth, Minn., gave an illustrated lecture on bridge work and the importance of mouth survey and preparatory treatment and Dr. Joseph Schaefer, Chicago, discussed myocardiitis, a hardening of the heart muscles.

The nonagenarian Croesus, who rose from a $450-a-week clerk to mastery of a fortune estimated as high as $2,400,000, died a comparatively "poor man."

A family spokesman said he left a "relatively small, very liquid" estate.

Retired At 57

Long ago, since his retirement from active business at the age of 57, he had turned the bulk of his fabulous riches over to his only son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., or spread it in philanthropic endowments to the far ends of the earth.

In his life-time, out of the golden torrent that gushed from his pocket of the greatest "money titan" in all history, he had given away the amazing sum of $530,830,000. Other gifts to his son raised the total to more than $700,000,000.

A special train was ready today to take the elder Rockefeller's body to his home in Pocantico Hills, N. Y., where a simple private funeral will be held Wednesday. Burial will follow on Thursday in Cleveland, where in 1855 he trudged the streets for six weeks before he landed his first job as a bookkeeper's assistant.

Death Unexpected

Death came unexpectedly. No immediate members of his family were present.

Despite his age, he had been in comparatively good health all winter. He had outlived more than 20 physicians who attended him during the years, and he was pronounced

Woman Slain, Daughter Is Critically Wounded

Paxton, Ill. — (AP) — Police Chief Ernest S. Cornillon said today jealousy on the part of a 60-year-old admirer-of a young girl, was the motive for the slaying of Mrs. Lewis Natterstad, 50, and the critical wounding of her daughter, Helen, 21.

The girl was near death in a hospital today, but a bullet wound she told officers were inflicted by Matt Coffey, a roomer in the Natterstad home.

Coffey's body was found in his automobile near Loda, five miles north of here, a few hours after the early Sunday shooting. A hose was connected to the exhaust pipe.

Mrs. Natterstad was shot by Coffey because she refused him permission to keep company with her daughter, the wounded girl told Chief Cornillon. She said he then turned the gun on her.

4 Drown When Launch Capsizes; Probe Begun

Chicago — (AP) — Police investigated today a quarrel which they said preceded the capsizing of a small gasoline launch in the Little Calumet river on the south side and the drowning of four of the seven men in the party.

The dead were: Al McCauley, 55, a fisherman and owner of the boat; Edward Tebo, 35, Edward Sacks, 64, and John Neiman, 42. McCauley and Tebo each was the father of six children.

The three rescued were Helmer Storie, Frank Costello and Harold E. Benton.

Policeman Ray Nelligan said McCauley, who had been piloting the boat, turned over the wheel to Tebo for a few minutes. When he returned a scuffle ensued between them and the boat overturned.

Religious and Social Agencies Important Factor, Officer Says

Milwaukee — (AP) — D. M. Ladd, head of the federal bureau of investigation at Chicago, told delegates to the Catholic Action conference of the Milwaukee archdiocese yesterday that religious and social agencies are of particular assistance in combating crime by seeking to prevent delinquency and assisting in the development of a "renewed respect for law and order."

"It is estimated there are 150,000 murderers at large in the United States, less than half of whom were at any time incarcerated for the murders they committed," he said.

"If the present homicide rate continues, approximately 200,000 Americans will commit murder before they die, and nearly 300,000 persons now living in this country will be murdered. Consider also that one out of every 25 persons in this country has at some time or other been arrested," he declared.

The Rev. George Johnson, professor of education at Catholic university, Washington, D. C., said the heart of the youth problem is that young people are prevented from exercising responsibility, from taking their proper place in the world, and from being self-sustaining members of society.

Allis Chalmers Workers Accept Wage Proposal

Milwaukee — (AP) — Employees of the Allis Chalmers company tentatively accepted a wage proposal advanced by company officials yesterday, but at the same time empowered their bargaining committee to halt production if no agreement is reached on other provisions of the contract now being negotiated.

Acceptance of the wage schedule with reservations was voted at a meeting of more than 7,000 employees who are members of the United Auto Workers' union. No details of the wage plan were revealed.

There was little or no change in other strikes affecting employees of Bucyrus-Erie Co., the Robert A. Johnston Co., Midwest Glove Co., or laundry workers, automobile salesmen, restaurant and theater employees.

The aged capitalist died at 3:05 Sunday morning C. S. T., at his winter home, "The Casements," drifting peacefully off to his final sleep after complaining that he felt "very tired."

His physician, Dr. Harry L. Merz, attributed death to sclerotic myocardiitis, a hardening of the heart muscles.

No Prospects of Early Truce in Labor Struggle

Cincinnati — (AP) — Hopes for an early settlement of the war between American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis vanished today when federation leaders unfolded their battle plans.

The federation's executive council proposed to a conference of loyal union representatives that the last vestige of unity in the American labor movement be wiped out by expulsion of all Committee for Industrial Organization local branches from A. F. of L. city central bodies.

The council also proposed that all loyal unions double their monthly contribution to the federation, now 1 cent a month for each member, to help fight enlargement of the C. I. O. at every turn. Council members estimated that temporary dues increase would add $35,000 a month to the war chest.

May Widen Field

Federation chieftains also talked of moving into territory that Lewis unions now claim and wholly or partially occupy. The coal fields, the textile mills and the garment factories were discussed as possible fields for A. F. of L. growth.

Joseph O'Zanic, president of the Progressive Miners of America, rival to Lewis' United Mine Workers in Illinois, appeared to ask for a charter as the A. F. of L. union in the soft coal industry.

William Green, A. F. of L. president and a member of the United Mine Workers, said the Progressives' application would receive careful attention.

Dormant for months, peace talk was renewed several weeks ago at the Atlantic City convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers, a C. I. O. union. The convention instructed the union's officers to try to arrange a peace conference.

Lewis immediately said he wanted no peace. Craft union leaders said privately they felt there was no chance for any reconciliation at present.

Job Insurance Ruling Before Reaching the End

Before reaching the end age pension section of the act, Cardozo read the opinion of five majority justices upholding unemployment security phases of the law.

The statute, Cardozo asserted, "does not call for a surrender by the states of sovereignty essential to their quasi-sovereign existence."

The unemployment insurance provisions taxed employers or more than eight persons to assist in caring for the future jobless and to provide a cushion against economic depression.

To induce states to adopt programs of their own and carry out the purpose of the federal act, the legislation provided that employers could deduct up to 90 per cent of the federal tax by paying that amount to the state.

Some Groups Exempted

The measure imposes a tax on employers' pay rolls ranging from 1 per cent in 1936 to 3 per cent in 1938 and thereafter. It is not applicable to agricultural labor, domestic service, seamen and employees of the federal and state governments.

"The social security act," Cardozo said, "is an attempt to fix a method of financing the social security system."

Unemployment Insurance Vote 5 to 4; Pensions, 7 to 2

Washington — (AP) — The administration's prized social security legislation, intended to protect workers against another depression, and to provide for them in old age, emerged unscathed today from its constitutional test by the supreme court.

In epochal decisions, the tribunal sustained provisions of the federal measure providing unemployment insurance and old age pensions. It then upheld state unemployment compensation laws to supplement the federal act.

This major administration victory gave it a clean sweep in its litigation before the high tribunal this term. Promptly, some opponents predicted that it meant defeat for President Roosevelt's program to put "new blood" in the court.

Administration supporters, however, refused to concede the fight.

Justice Stone delivered the 5 to 4 opinion upholding the Alabama unemployment compensation act, similar to those enacted by 45 other states and by the District of Columbia. It was a test case of the legislation.

How Court Voted

The provisions of the unemployment insurance provisions of the federal act were upheld by a 5 to 4 vote and those granting old age pensions by a 7 to 2 ballot. Both decisions were delivered by Justice Cardozo.

Four justices who dissented to the federal unemployment insurance and the state unemployment compensation decisions were Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler—those generally described by the administration as "conservative." Justice Cardozo delivered the majority opinion in these cases.

Only justices McReynolds and Butler dissented to the old age pension ruling.

In his opinion, Justice Stone asserted that the Alabama law "on its face and as applied to appellees, is subject to no constitutional infirmity."

Millions Affected

Approximately 27,600,000 workers and 2,700,000 employers are taxed to provide the old age benefits which start in 1942 when the recipients become 65.

Speaking for himself and six other justices in ruling on the old pension section of the security law Cardozo said:

"The purge of nationwide calamity that began in 1929 has taught us many lessons. Not the least is the solidarity of interests that may once have seemed to be divided....

"The problem is plainly national in area and dimensions. Moreover, the laws of the separate states, deal with it effectively. Congress, at least, had a basis for that belief."

"State and local governments are often lacking in the resources that are necessary to finance an adequate program of security for the aged."

Position of States

"This is brought out with a wealth of illustration in recent studies of the problem."

"Apart from the failure of resources, states and local governments are at times reluctant to increase so heavily the burden of taxation to be borne by their residents for fear of placing themselves in a position of economic disadvantage as compared with other states or competitors. We have seen this in the study of the problem of unemployment compensation."

"A system of old age pensions has special dangers of its own, if put in force in one state and rejected in another. The existence of such a system is a bait to the needy and dependent elsewhere, encouraging them to migrate and seek a haven of repose. Only a power that is national can serve the interests of all."

Help Fight Crime, Conference Urged

Washington — (AP) — The supreme court ruled today that a labor organization had the right, under the Wisconsin labor code, to engage in peaceful picketing to call attention to activities of a non-union employer.

There is nothing in the federal constitution," Justice Brandeis said for the majority, "which forbids unions from competing with non-union concerns for customers by means of picketing as freely as one merchant competes with another by means of advertisements in the press, by circulars, or by his window display."

The decision represented a defeat to Paul Senn, Milwaukee tile contractor, in his effort to stop picketing of his premises by the Tile Layers' Protective union, local No. 5.

Justice Butler delivered a dissenting opinion, joined by Justices McReynolds, Van Devanter and Sutherland.

The union said it started picketing after Senn had declined to accept a contract under which only union labor would be used in the tile work.

Memorial poppies, to be worn in honor of the World war dead and to raise funds for the welfare of the disabled veterans and needy families of the dead and disabled, will be distributed throughout the city. A corps of workers will offer the flowers to everyone on the streets Saturday. No set price has been made for the poppies.

The proclamation: "Whereas, in the great crisis of the World war, the young men of Appleton offered their services to our country with an exalted spirit of patriotism, numbers of them sacrificing their lives in that service; "And, whereas, the same exalted spirit of patriotism is needed today for the service of our country in its peace time difficulties;

"Therefore, I, John Goodland, mayor of the City of Appleton, urge all citizens to recall the spirit of these gallant dead and renew the memory of their high patriotic service by the wearing of the American Legion and American Legion auxiliary memorial poppy on Saturday, May 29.

"To that purpose I do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 29, Poppy Day in the City of Appleton.

Orchestras Win At Tournament

Milwaukee Judge Praises Local Organizations For Their Work

The honor orchestra composed of students from Roosevelt, McKinley and Wilson Junior High school and the senior high school orchestra, first prize in class B and second prize in class A, won the annual festival Saturday at West De Pere. An orchestra from the Green Bay High school won second place in class B.

In the class A tourney, Appleton was unopposed. Sidney Mears, Milwaukee, judged both Appleton organizations and praised the senior orchestra for its demonstration of accuracy in sight reading. The orchestra played "Courier of the King" and "Austrian Hymn" at the tournament.

"Strong points of the honor orchestra were its accuracy, decision, precision and intonation, according to Mr. Mears. The organizations rendered scores of A plus on tone, intonation, interpretation, general effect, musical technique, stage deportment and instrumentation.

The West De Pere festival was the last for local musicians this year.

Act Play Presented By Freshmen Students

A one-act play, "Fortinbras in Plain Clothes," was presented by members of the freshman class at Lawrence college convocation in Memorial chapel this morning. The play was repeated for a performance given in connection with the freshman guest day Saturday, May 15, and is a humorous sketch of what supposedly happens after the curtain falls at the end of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

HOOVER KEEPS FORD FIRE ALIVE

In 1929 Herbert Hoover, then president of the United States, visited Henry Ford in Detroit and kindled a fire in the fireplace of the "Lincoln courthouse" in the auto magnate's reconstructed historical village at Dearborn, Mich. During the intervening years the fire has not been permitted to burn out and in this picture the former president is shown placing a log on the blaze while revisiting the village with Ford (right).

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

In the Hidden Corners

Every one has been so much interested in the Supreme Court that little attention has been given to the remainder of the president's bill. Indeed, it has been generally assumed that the sections dealing with the lower federal courts were acceptable, perhaps even desirable. But on analysis it soon appears that here, too, is the same indication and the same effort to enlarge the president's personal power.

If the bill were enacted now the president would be assured the appointment of forty-four judges of the lower federal courts over and above vacancies which would result from death. He would appoint at once six judges in the circuit court of appeals and in the court of appeals of the District of Columbia. He would appoint, also, thirteen judges in the district courts. During the remainder of Mr. Roosevelt's term he would appoint another twenty-five judges.

The ingenious men who devised the plan had evidently studied the ages of all the judges. They fixed the total number of appointments, including those to the supreme court, at fifty judges. By a happy coincidence it so happens that there were just fifty judges who reach the age of seventy and a half before the end of Mr. Roosevelt's term.

Congestion Found in But a Single Circuit

It is interesting to examine the way in which the bill distributes these appointments. Last October at the annual meeting of the ten senior circuit judges, the problem of congestion in the courts was considered by the judges, the attorney general and the solicitor general. It was found that except in one circuit, the Ninth, the courts were not congested. A committee was appointed to consider the request for two more judges in the Ninth circuit.

But under the president's bill no additional judges can be appointed in the Ninth circuit. The judges there are not old enough. But there will be an extra judge in the First circuit, two in the Third, and one in the Tenth. Yet the judges and Mr. Roosevelt's own law officers agreed in October that no extra judges were needed in those circuits.

Few Serious Delays in District Courts, However

In the district courts, of which there are eighty-five, the judicial conference found serious delays of over six months in eighteen districts. The conference recommended four additional district judges, one each in Georgia, Louisiana, Texas and Washington.

Under the president's bill, thirteen additional judges will be appointed at once. According to the report of the committee of the Bar Association of New York City, all but one of these additional judges will be appointed in districts other than those where they are needed, and none will be appointed, if understood the matter correctly, in the seventeen other districts where there is serious congestion.

The device of the bill were not, however, so innocently stupid as this sounds. For they provide what they call an "elastic" scheme for assigning and transferring superfluous judges from courts where they are not needed to courts which need more judges.

Find This Scheme is A Real Masterpiece

This scheme is their real masterpiece. Under the present law a judge can be transferred from one circuit to another only by the chief justice at the request of the senior judge of the circuit where help is needed and with the agreement of the senior judge of the circuit from which the judge is transferred. # Youngsters Blamed For Hay Stack Blaze

A fire in a hay stack on W. Foster street property owned by Louis Lang was extinguished by firemen at 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The blaze, believed started by some children, was checked before it damaged the barn against which the hay was stacked.

A chimney fire at the George Stadler residence, 307 S. Weinmar street, was extinguished by firemen at 8 o'clock Sunday morning. Escaping furnace smoke at Hotel Appleton prompted a call to the department at 8:30 Sunday morning and a fire in an automobile owned by A. J. Lueders at 1518 N. Drev street resulted in the third alarm of the day. Damage in the car fire was negligible.

The legislature will reconvene tonight, with huge calendars and feverishly busy committees. The budget has not been completely formulated. # Message Asking Congress To Draft Labor Standards social progress has too often been fought by them. In actual practice it has been effectively advanced only by the passage of laws by the legislatures or the national congress.

These rudimentary standards will of necessity at the start fall far short of the ideal. Even in the treatment of national problems there are geographical and industrial diversities which practical statesmanship can not wholly ignore. Backward labor conditions and relatively progressive labor conditions can not be completely assimilated and made uniform at one fell swoop without creating economic dislocations.

Practical exigencies suggest the wisdom of distinguishing labor conditions which are clearly oppressive from those which are not as fair or as reasonable as they should be under circumstances prevailing in particular industries. Most fair labor standards as a practical matter require some differentiation between different industries and localities. But there are a few rudimentary standards of which we may properly ask general and widespread observance. Failure to observe them must be regarded as socially and economically oppressive and unwarranted under almost any circumstance.

Can Meet Problem

Allowing for a few exceptional trades and permitting longer hours on the payment of time and a half for overtime, it should not be difficult to define a general maximum working week. Allowing for appropriate qualifications and general classifications by administrative action, it should also be possible to put some floor below which the wage ought not to fall. There should be no difficulty in ruling out the products of the labor of children from any fair market. And there should also be little dispute when it comes to ruling out of the interstate markets products of employers who deny to their workers the right of self-organization and collective bargaining, whether through the fear of labor spies, the bait of company unions, or the use of strike-breakers. The abuses disclosed by the investigations of the senate must be promptly curbed.

With the establishment of these rudimentary standards as

Under the constitution such commerce belongs not to the states but to congress to regulate. It may carry out its views of public policy whatever indirect effect they may have upon the activities of the states. Instead of being encountered by a prohibitive tariff at her boundaries the state encounters the public policy of the United States which it is for congress to express. The public policy of the United States is shaped with a view to the benefit of the nation as a whole. The national welfare as understood by congress may require a different attitude within its sphere from that of some self-seeking state. It seems to me entirely constitutional for congress to enforce its understanding by all the means at its command."

5 to 4 Decision

Mr. Justice Brandeis, Mr. Justice Clark, and Mr. Justice McKenna agreed. A majority of the supreme court, however, decided 5-4 against Mr. Justice Holmes and laid down a rule of constitutional law which has ever since driven into impractical distinctions and subterfuges all attempts to assert the fundamental power of the national government over interstate commerce.

But although Mr. Justice Holmes spoke for a minority of the supreme court he spoke for a majority of the American people.

One of the primary purposes of the formation of our federal union was to do away with the trade barriers between the states. To the congress and not to the states was given the power to regulate commerce among the several states. Congress can not interfere in local affairs but when goods pass through the channels of commerce from one state to another they become subject to the power of the congress, and the congress may exercise that power to regulate and protect the fundamental interests of free labor.

And so to protect the fundamental interests of free labor and a free people we propose that only goods which have been produced under conditions which meet the minimum standards of free labor shall be admitted to interstate commerce. Goods produced under conditions which do not meet rudimentary standards of decency should be regarded as contraband and ought not to be allowed to pollute the channels of interstate trade.

Time Is Needed

These rudimentary standards will of necessity at the start fall far short of the ideal. Even in the treatment of national problems there are geographical and industrial diversities which practical statesmanship can not wholly ignore. Backward labor conditions and relatively progressive labor conditions can not be completely assimilated and made uniform at one fell swoop without creating economic dislocations.

Former Appleton Man Ordained as Priest

The Rev. Erwin Van Handel, Milwaukee, son of Arnold Van Handel, formerly of Appleton, was ordained to the Catholic priesthood Saturday morning at St. Francis. Father Van Handel read his first mass at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Francis church, and a banquet followed at the church hall. About 50 Appleton and Little Chute persons attended the first mass and banquet, including the Misses Rose and Mary Van Handel and Joseph Van Handel, aunts and uncle of the newly ordained priest.

a base we must seek to build up, through appropriate administrative machinery, minimum wage standards of fairness and reasonableness, industry by industry, having due regard to local and geographical diversities and to the effect of unfair labor conditions upon competition in interstate trade and upon the maintenance of industrial peace.

Although a goodly portion of the goods of American industry move in interstate commerce and will be covered by the legislation which we recommend, there are many purely local products and services which no federal legislation can effectively cover. No state is justified in sitting idly by and expecting the federal government to meet state responsibility for those labor conditions with which the state may effectively deal without fear of unneighborly competition from sister states. The proposed federal legislation should be a stimulus and not a hindrance to state action.

A more resolutely to extend the frontiers of social progress, we must be guided by practical reason and not by barren formulae. We must ever bear in mind that our objective is to improve and not to impair the standard of living of those who are now undernourished, poorly clad and ill housed.

We know that over-work and under-pay do not increase the national income when a large portion of our workers remain unemployed. Reasonable and flexible use of the long established right of government to set and to change working hours can, I hope, decrease unemployment in those groups in which unemployment today principally exists.

Our problem is to work out in practice those labor standards which will permit the maximum but prudent employment of our human resources to bring within the reach of the average man and woman a maximum of goods and of services conducive to the fulfillment of the promise of American life.

Legislation can, I hope, be passed at this session of the congress further to help those who toil in factory and on farm. We have promised it. We can not stand still.

Union Attempt to Cut Pontiac Rents Is Unprecedented

Action of Auto Workers of Nation - Wide Importance, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Collective bargaining or collective budgeoning? The people of Pontiac, Mich., would probably like to know which is the proper term to apply to an extraordinary demand that has been made upon them by one of John Lewis' unions. It is not a demand for wages or hours or recognition as a bargaining agency, but a demand that rents be reduced, and if they are not well, then the union will instruct its members to discontinue paying all rents as of June 1 next.

The episode is of nation-wide importance because, like the "sit-down" strike, which attained national proportions in Michigan, the use of a monopolistic power of a union organization to fix rent prices by coercive action is likewise unprecedented.

The first step by the John Lewis union in Pontiac was the publication in the local newspaper of the following advertisement in display type:

"Notice to all property owners in the Pontiac metropolitan area:

"On Monday, May 4th, the undersigned committee of the United Automobile Workers, Pontiac local union 159, met with the president of the Pontiac Real Estate board, the prosecuting attorney, the president of the Oakland Bar association and a circuit court commissioner.

"The purpose of this meeting was to secure a voluntary reduction in rents.

"On Tuesday, May 4th, this committee met again with the president of the real estate board and two receivers for local banks. All major property owners were invited to this conference.

"No results have been obtained to date.

"Rents of members of our union have been increased in some cases as much as 150 per cent over that paid one year ago. Average increase is 50 per cent.

"The average rent increase is approximately 50 per cent higher than actual increase in earnings.

"The United Automobile Workers is organized to protect its membership.

"We want to arbitrate the matter; we're willing to do so; we must have immediate action.

"Signed: Rent committee, United Automobile Workers of America, local No. 159.

"Charles Barker, chairman
"Joe Marley
"Joseph Quick
"George Cornibear
"Olin H. Johnson, general counsel."

3,000 Got Letters
Since the advertisement was published on May 11, the union has sent letters to about 3,000 property owners in Pontiac, implying also if co-operation is not forthcoming, action along the lines of the suggested procedures may be taken.

It would seem on its face that the union cannot invoke the Wagner labor act in defense of its tactics and, if actually carried out, would come near being a group conspiracy by one set of citizens to injure the busi-

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY MYRNA LOY

Guest Columnist for Robbin Coons
Hollywood—All my life I have wanted a house of my own. I suppose that is among the most human of all desires. For years I lived in apartments and rented houses. But I am glad I waited. The anticipation and planning have been fun, and the realization has exceeded my fondest hopes.

I am afraid my home doesn't quite come up to what might be expected of a movie actress's home. It isn't palatial, far from it, but then I wanted a home and not a showplace.

From the moment I saw the property, several years ago, I knew that I must have it. The grounds, tucked away in the hills back of Hollywood, cover four-and-one-half acres of rolling wooded land, topped by the knoll on which the home has been built. The architecture is rambling early California farmhouse style and the house looks as if it might have been there always, which is the effect I sought.

Originally, my small acreage was part of a Spanish land grant. I have endeavored not to spoil its natural beauty. There are a swimming pool and tennis court, but they are hidden under the trees at the foot of the house. The pool follows the contours of the knoll. Two acres are planted in lime trees, always refreshingly green.

The furnishings and draperies I selected myself. I wanted a comfortable home, devoid of modernistic touches, and most of the furniture I picked up at farms on trips into the Southern California back country. I found amazing things—chairs and tables and desks that were brought to California by ex-act in the days of '49.

The majority needed repairing, but the wood has that satiny, aged appearance which only time can give. I am particularly proud of my dining room set. It looked like a wreck when I purchased it, having been stored in a barn for years. A little polish made it look like new.

I like color and found a perfect covering for the chairs in the multi-hued petticoats worn by the women of Normandy. I brought back a dozen of them from my trip to Europe two years ago.

Everything in the home is like that, something I have wanted and worked for. It was completed a few weeks before I finished "Par-nell" and now I am enjoying a long vacation and rest.

I had thought of taking a trip, but I cannot bring myself to go further away than the limits of the front porch. At this moment, I'll hazard the guess that the entire vacation will be spent at home.

36 Million Spent On Non-Federal PWA Jobs in State

U. S. Supplied $13,420,205 While Communities Paid Balance

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Local authorities in Wisconsin have spent nearly twice as much on non-federal PWA projects in the four years since its origin, as the government, according to a survey made by the Public Works Administration.

Wisconsin applicants for PWA grants, have supplied $22,700,283 to construct projects estimated to cost a total of $36,210,493 on completion, while the government has granted only $13,420,205.

Wisconsin is seventeenth among the states in amount of money spent on non-federal PWA projects. New York was first in local contribution and PWA construction over the four year period, Illinois second, California third and Pennsylvania fourth.

According to the PWA survey, locally supplied funds contributed to 66 per cent of the entire costs of the non-federal programs. This, plus the 34 per cent granted by the government, was sufficient to foster the construction of thousands of schools, hospitals, waterworks, etc., creating more than seven billion man-hours of labor, PWA reports.

Non-federal applicants in the entire country furnished a total of $1,697,550,427 making possible civic improvements estimated to cost $2,422,146,074. PWA grants during the four years totaled $724,595,602.

Chesapeake Bay Retriever Wins Grand Champion Cup at Dog Show

BY DON CHRISTIANSEN

A big, tough Chesapeake Bay retriever rules today as monarch of Appleton dogdom, and his boss, Dr. R. V. Landis, 16, Bellaire court, has the silver trophy that the Chesapeake took for a year as best of all the dogs shown at the Izak Walton league's second annual all-city show at Pierce park Sunday afternoon. "Brownie," the Chesapeake, isn't cute like the Boston terriers, the Scotties or Poms, he isn't streamlined like a Russian Wolf hound, as massively powerful as a Great Dane or as wistfully beautiful as an Irish setter, but he's a champion as American as the Boston tea party and has ancestors from Maryland that date back to about the same time.

His 90 pounds of bone, muscle and power are packed under a close, wavy brown coat that keeps him cozy while he breaks ice to bring in ducks and keeps him intact while he tears through the brush after a fallen pheasant. He has a disposition all his own. During the show he was openly looking for a chance to battle, didn't care what kind of a dog wanted to make something of it and made a pass or two at the nearest pooch every now and then, regardless of size or model. After the show, he let a mob of youngsters mill all around him and didn't bat an eye.

Demonstrates Power "Brownie" pulls youngsters around on a sled in the winter time, and on one occasion Sunday he gave a brief demonstration of Chesapeake power. He was being paraded around the ring with the winners of the dog show in the finals when he suddenly decided that the dog ahead of him was a little cocky or something and made a lunge that snapped a braided leather leash like grocery string. Dr. Landis made a flying tackle and caught him by a back leg before anybody got any ticks down.

Hundreds of people watched for hours as the dogs were led into the rings and judged for best of class and breed. At the end, the best of each breed was brought in for selection of the champion, but in a few minutes the judges eliminated all but seven, the big Chesapeake, a Borzoi or Russian Wolf hound entered by Mrs. Walter H. Wiekert, a Labrador retriever owned by Gordon Derber, a Boston terrier owned by L. J. Small, Newfoundland owned by Roy Kading, a Dalmatian owned by W. H. Greunke and an English setter entered by Richard Piette. Only the Chesapeake, the Labrador, the Dalmatian and the setter were left in the ring when the final selection was made.

Trick Dogs Perform

The trick dogs provided a popular feature of the show. Two of them performed. The first was Duke, a second place winner in the "trick" class but a smart fellow just the same. The milling crowd made him nervous but he played dead, prayed and held a rubber ball on his nose in response to quiet commands from his boss, Norman Johnson.

Rex, a 5-year-old German Shepherd dog owned by Ludwig Centner, 1221 W. Lorain street, was, however, the classiest performer of the day. Winning the best of breed ribbon in the German shepherd class, Rex brought round after round of applause from the spectators. For example, Centner squatted down at one side of the ring and ordered the dog to "take my glasses off and bring them to mamma." Rex reached up and, with his teeth, took the glasses off his master's nose and carried them, very carefully, over to Mrs. Centner on the other side of the ring.

When Centner said, "bring mamma," Rex went over, took Mrs. Centner's hand in his mouth, and led her towards his boss.

Fred R. Gehrke, manager of the Wisconsin State Employment Service bureau located here, has been named one of ten representatives of the Wisconsin Labor Relations board to extend its activities over the state.

The appointments will give the board prompt access to the industrial areas of Appleton, Green Bay, Kenosha, Racine, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Manitowoc, Oshkosh, Stevens Point and Superior.

J. K. Kyle, board secretary, said five strikes had been settled through the board's intervention last week and that more than a dozen labor disputes, originating mainly in Milwaukee, are awaiting consideration.

"In an increasing number of cases the board is being called upon for assistance in advance of strikes and in a large percentage of the cases it has been successful in preventing any interruption of employment," he said.

Head Job Offices

Of the ten representatives, eight are superintendents of state public employment offices. They are: Fred Gehrke, Appleton; Harold J. Youngberg, Eau Claire; W. W. Hield, Green Bay; Bert A. Thompson, Kenosha; N. E. Schulze, La Crosse; R. D. Scoon, Racine; A. E. Fredrick, Stevens Point, and E. H. Kreul, Superior.

The others are A. N. Mintz, director of Vocational Education at Manitowoc and Henry Schreiber, factory inspector at Oshkosh.

Herman Rauch, director of the Milwaukee Unemployment Compensation division, has been placed in charge of the Milwaukee Labor Relations office, and Lyle W. Cooper, formerly of Marquette university, has been named a mediator in the Milwaukee area.

Norman Moser, Madison, and Frederick Rusch, Madison, have been appointed examiners to assist in mediation work, investigations and hearings.

Kyle said the board has registered several hundred A. F. of L. and CIO unions and has received requests for recognition from some 25 independent unions organized since the new law became effective.

Since the act forbids the recognition of company unions, Kyle said the board would conduct hearings to determine whether the independent organizations are legitimate labor groups before they are registered.

The board has adopted rules to govern the handling of cases in which charges of unfair labor practices are preferred against employers.

"Whenever possible," Kyle said, "it has sought compliance with the law without formal hearings, but where this is not possible the board is ready to proceed with formal trials and orders."

OUR HOME TOWN

Memorial Day by Schommer's

When the last veteran of the war between the states has passed on, and the Memorial Day processions no longer contain any of those bent figures in blue broadcloth, the United States will have lost something that shaped whole generations of national life.

That war can well be committed to the abyss of time. It was a dreadful thing, productive of wounds that have been long in healing. But the men themselves—once young, tough, irreverent, profane, after the manner of soldiers, we shall not get on so well when the last of them has left us.

It is a wholesome thing to be reminded that our country was not bought and paid for in a 5-and-10-cent store. It is what it is today because, in past generations, it managed to produce the courage and devotion which could send men forth to lay down their lives for it. They bought it for us, and paid a staggering price in blood and pain and hardship for it, and we owe them a debt that no amount of money ever could pay.

We set aside one day each year, Memorial Day, to make a formal acknowledgment of that debt and to remind ourselves that it is merely the other side of the debt we owe our country.

Not all of us are called upon to die for our country but all are

Recall Election Date to be Set by Common Council

Special Session of Aldermen Is Planned Tonight

Kaukauna—The city council will meet in special session at 7:30 tonight to set the date for the recall election, authorized last week by County Judge Fred V. Heinemann of Appleton after petitions containing 960 signatures of voters of this city were approved.

Under statutes, the election must be not more than 40 days and not less than 50 from the time the petitions were approved. City Attorney Harry McAndrews has stated that Tuesday, July 6, would be the most logical date, but it is up to the council to decide.

Mayor John Niesen automatically becomes a candidate and anyone who wishes to oppose him must file nomination papers just as it is done in the regular election. These papers must be submitted to City Clerk J. Steffens, Brenzel 30, before the election is held, giving the candidates from 10 to 20 days to prepare them after the date is set by the council.

If more than one candidate opposes Niesen, a primary must be held. Although the primary is not used in this city, regulations governing recalls call for its use in order to limit the field to two men. If necessary, the primary will be held here two weeks before the election.

MEXICO AND THE NEIGHBORLY POLICY

Last January Mexico raised the average of its tariffs 25 per cent. Since most of its imports were from this country this unusual increase was a substantial blow to American commerce.

Recently the nation below the Rio Grande, and which sings of The Dove but knows little peace, has placed a new and heavy tax which it chooses to call an income tax—Heaven save the world!—upon American companies by declaring that 35 per cent of their gross sales shall be paid into the treasury unless they maintain branch sales offices in Mexico in which case they come under another and different form of special taxation.

American business men who are familiar with the Mexican situation declare that the average profit upon their sales do not exceed 10 per cent so, of course, they must throw up the business or increase prices radically to the Mexican people which in turn will tend to lessen the business. They add that so-called free-lance salesmen in Mexico, unconnected with any branch sales office there, actually dispose of about half of the sum total of American business transacted below the border.

The Mexican peon has had a hard time of it. Ordinarily unschooled he has been fertile soil for every wild political idea occurring to leaders in his benighted land, many of whom were bandits pure and simple.

But now he is to get what may be called the Socialist twist. Evidently the Mexican government has become thirsty for a new fountain of taxation. It knows that when it raises tariffs or increases income taxes based upon sales that it will raise prices and increase its own revenue without the poor peon ever learning why the prices were raised.

Its thin duplicity in the matter is evident from the fact that it has broadcast the new tax as an "income tax" so that the lowly peon may rub his hands and gloat over the way this country is squeezing the profits out of the rich Yankees when in fact the tax is just about the most violent sales tax that was ever ripped into a worker's ribs.

Such comment however should only be said by way of passing. What the Mexican government does to the Mexican people is ordinarily no funeral on the American side.

But this deceit and deception of its own does result in a slow-down of American business in that land because it is bound to decrease quantity sales while it increases quantity revenue to the government.

We thus have a hybrid and mongrel construction of the celebrated Neighborly Policy, sometimes called the Goody-Goody Policy.

Under the terms of this marvelous doctrine it is wrong for America to even complain. Our consuls, ministers and ambassadors in all the lands to the south of us when hit with a stone on the public street must doff their hats and say "Thank you" in the best Castilian. Whenever called upon at a banquet they will toast the local government with the royal word of courtiers telling of its magnificent accomplishments and how America is happy to have such a friend. Such of our citizens as may have carried trade and barter into these countries are expected to have all their belongings together so that they may turn them over to the first gendarme that asks for them.

The sum total of our benefits from this craven and flinching policy thrown out in a funk as a sort of milk-sop to the lazy and shiftless has been a twisted bunch of faded flowers but even they were from the desert.

SOILED HANDS

That there is lack of adequate data on skilled labor is admitted by government agencies and union organizers. The latter, certainly, should have the information if it is available to anyone.

And lack of the information vastly complicates the discussions concerning "the problem of the unemployed," and alleged labor shortages in certain trades.

The United States Employment Service, basing its estimate on the number of clearances reported by its 1,500 field agents in 1936 as compared to the number in 1935 has reached the conclusion that while there is no shortage at the present time there is likely to be one if employment continues to pick up steadily for the next five years and if apprenticeships do not keep pace.

One good result of the discussions is that young men are thinking, more seriously, about trades. White-collar occupations hold less appeal. There is more willingness to soil hands.

Soiled hands built this Nation. Perhaps it is not too much to say that some of the Nation's more recent troubles have been the result of a general unwillingness to rub hands in dirt.

QUALITY IN OUR LAWMAKERS

Mr. Mencken, famed for burning words, is beating his tom-toms and dancing on the warpath against those who make our laws.

He reasons that since we have set up boards of inquiry or examination to look into the qualifications of everyone from doctors and lawyers to barbers and plumbers before we permit them to follow their particular vocations we err because we draw no bead whatever upon the legislature but assume that "any idiot is fit to make laws."

Mr. Mencken forgets that in choosing legislators we create ourselves into a board of examiners of the whole since we select our lawmakers and presumably pass upon their qualifications. If it be true that some of them can neither read nor write their selection does not speak very well for the board of examiners that chose them.

All told we do not believe our lawmakers merit the gentleman's strictures. The country makes altogether too much of the occasional nitwit or goof who gets into the legislative halls when no one appears to be on the watch. This has happened more in recent elections because Mr. Roosevelt's heavy vote swept into office a good many men whom no one expected to be elected and concerning whose nomination little thought was given.

The general average of our legislators is pretty good, we think a good deal better than the people are generally willing to admit. The men elected usually have a pretty sound education in the schools and that other and equally important education that is gained through thought, reflection and experience.

If we could erase from the minds of lawmakers that constant ambition to be reelected regardless of the quality of service they render we think the American system would be improved 50 per cent.

We have too many men who frankly admit that a vote is wrong but cast it figuring they will help themselves in securing the suffrage of some certain persistent minority.

The press ought to be willing to help out in this regard and can in material degree. It should emphasize every rebuff made by a legislator to those who wish to trade votes for advantage as it should stress equally the occasions when legislators weaken at the knees to gain a handicap in the next election.

While public opinion is always a matter of importance in a democracy, and when once formed into a satisfactory conclusion must not be flouted, it always walks with arms akimbo with another equally important idea and that is that democracy depends largely for its success upon the selection by the voters of capable and independent men who will become especially familiar with subjects of legislation and use their best judgment in recording their votes irrespective of consequences.

LOOKS AS THOUGH WE ARE BACK TO NORMAL

At a conference of alleged teetotalers in the East recently speakers were greatly worried because of the "serving of liquor in the White House," became breathless because the WPA had shipped rum from the Virgin Islands, orated in horror upon the "terrible evils of alcoholic beverages," and specified in particular the ravages upon humanity to be expected of "a motherhood that is drunk."

The reasonable reader will note the intemperate mixture of charges, the reckless effort to mix with alcohol something even worse than gasoline—politics.

Those who have freely criticized the Roosevelt administration cannot justly point to any fact indicating either a wrongful or unreasonable indulgence in intoxicants personally or by service to others at the White House.

America hasn't "a motherhood that is drunk" because an occasional mother forgets herself and overindulges in alcohol any more than it has a motherhood that is savage and bestial because an occasional mother may cut the throats of her own children.

The Anti-Saloon League failed in America because it was highly unreasonable. The forces of prohibition will continually fail because they are not satisfied with making progress nor will they even cooperate with temperance organizations bent upon that purpose but insist upon beating their own drums, raising their own funds, paying their own salaries and dishing out their own tales of horror painting America upon the brink of the precipice, its mothers staggering around like drunken satyrs, its rulers swilling their guests in rum and everything else about us shooting straight for the inferno.

While the Democrats are looking for proof of the return of normalcy what about these Anti-Saloon Leaguers and their stories? Aren't their attacks pretty good proof that the nation is back on an even keel again?

This started out to be a poem to Kutz (Who's ill from car sickness as a result of hit-and-run driving, has been laid up for more than a week, and may be laid up for a few days yet, and I sure am sorry, ol' pal, ol' pal.) But the muse is silent On the subject. A poem To Kutz? Oh nuts.

MEMORIES

And what will linger longest in my memory of that trip into the wasteland will be the recollections of that old pine tree. We called it the Signal Pine. Lightning scarred, gnarled and neglected, naked and lifeless, it stood on a pinnacle, a landmark, indeed. Its deformed trunk stood in the skyline, dauntless and defiant, neglected, unwanted, last visible specimen of a species decimated by wanton waste and destruction, its very existence due to its deformity. Near its base stood the blackened and decaying stumps of the mates of its childhood, whose bodies for a short while satiated the whine of the band saws, and then were no more.

And when the mates of our Signal Pine were felled, I can visualize Sven and Ole, timber beasts for the harpies, casting their ox-like eyes up its deformed trunk and stating—"Him no guide."

And the hand of the executioner was stayed No good?

Many an evening it guided my weary feet out of the wilderness and wasteland, back to the deer tent and peace.

—EZEKIEL SOUBUSTER

Another nice thing about spring and summer weekends is the fact that Congress recesses.

LORDS OF CREATION

He hears his heart thumping, he feels his knees shaking. While strains of the wedding march swell through the room: Admiring friends gaze on his bride and her bridesmaids. But the man gets scant notice—he's only the groom.

A year and a day and again we behold him, Poor nerve-shaken mortal, with worry half-mad.

He waylays the doctors and questions the nurses. They snub him, ignore him—he's only the Dad.

—MRS. G. W.

Maybe Mrs. G. W. can ease the aches of the ailing Kutz with some scintillating verse.

And I wonder if Kutz has read "Gone With the Wind." Another ailing fellow-worker, his foot in a cast, accomplished the feat, as did a third pal who is in bed. Only confinement would make these guys—like me—read the book instead of waiting for the movie.

DIET AND DEGENERATION

By overeating and drinking and avoiding exercise George Cheyne degenerated by the age of thirty years to a lethargic, listless 448-pound lump of flesh with only a feeble breath of life left in him.

Then he began dieting on MILK and Vegetables and, as soon as he got back a little better wind he began to take exercise. He reduced his weight to 150 pounds, lived to the age of 72 years (a long life for Cheyne's time), and being human left an essay on health and long life to tell others how to achieve regeneration.

MILK and milk products such as cream, butter, cheese, buttermilk, sour milk, skin milk, acidophilus milk condensed, evaporated and dried milk and various beverages or dishes in which one or another of these dairy products is the chief ingredient, constitute an important part of the corrective protective diet or regeneration regimen which nutrition authorities today recommend for the prevention or arrest of degenerative diseases. Milk, butter, eggs, cheese, fresh vegetables, especially the greens or leafy vegetables which are good to eat raw, and fresh fruits in season are the essentials of the daily ration for any one who wants to preserve youth, maintain vire and enjoy longevity.

Primitive races, according to Weston A. Price, D. D. S., distinguished for his researches in dental pathology, lose their natural immunity to tooth decay and to associated degenerations when they adopt modern refined foods such as white flour, sugar, polished rice and various canned foods. On this nutrition authorities today recommend for the prevention or arrest of degenerative diseases. Milk, butter, eggs, cheese, fresh vegetables, especially the greens or leafy vegetables which are good to eat raw, and fresh fruits in season are the essentials of the daily ration for any one who wants to preserve youth, maintain vire and enjoy longevity.

The next talk in this series will give all the details of such a diet replete with vitamins, minerals, alkaline ash residue, roughage and everything—everything but calories. Not only the scientific investigators who have carried on extensive experimental study, but also practicing physicians alert to the application of newer knowledge of nutrition conclude that the diet of modern civilized man, consisting chiefly of refined or "denatured" foods, is an important factor of degenerative disease. Experience warrants the belief that restoration to the daily diet of an adequate proportion of corrective protective foods (that is foods that have not been robbed of their natural mineral and vitamin) tends to reverse the degeneration and bring about regeneration.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Turpentine

Could any injury to health become apparent 18 months after one had taken two table-spoonsful of turpentine, internally? (A. L.)

Answer—One of the ill effects from swallowing turpentine is inflammation of kidneys. This might develop into a more definite nephritis or Bright's disease in that time.

Aluminum Chloride
You recommended a solution of one-half ounce of aluminum chloride in three ounces of water for application to the arm pits for three successive days for the control of perspiration. Would it be all right to use this regularly, provided one applies it only three days each week? (A. H.)

Answer—Yes, as long as it does not set up undue irritation.

Why, Doctor?
Our doctor just takes his clinical thermometer from its case, swishes it a moment in a glass of water or runs cold water from the tap over it, then puts it in patient's mouth. Could not infection be carried that way? (M. V. F.)

Answer—Yes. Some physicians carry the thermometer in a strong germicidal solution. In any case it should be washed with soap and water or with alcohol or other germicidal or antiseptic solution. (Copyright, 1937.)

Your Birthday

"GEMINI"

If May 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m. and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a. m. from 6:15 to 8:15 p. m. and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

It will pay you to respond graciously to all forms of greetings this day. Be reasonable in any demands you make, particularly in matters involving money. Fight off any feeling of discouragement by trying to remember that TOMORROW may bring an abundance of good and a favorable change in your affairs. By making the proper use of your reasoning power you ought to find a happy solution to most of your problems. If you wish to escape criticism, avoid professing to believe in doing a certain thing when, through some action, your conduct will be just the opposite of your expressed ideas. Be sociable this day, for geniality will bring happiness and perhaps some very pleasant surprises. Married and engaged couples and those who are engaged in courtships, must work together in furthering any plans involving social activities this day.

If a woman and May 25 is your birthday, you are apt to be very sentimental, emotional and of a very loyal nature. You are probably very truthful, abhorring anything that borders on the hypocritical. Select as your close friends people with happy dispositions, for anyone who is cold and unresponsive to affectionate advances may prove to be most unsatisfactory as a companion. You may soon enter into a period of great prosperity. As a teacher, artist, musician, singer, entertainer, secretary, broker, writer or actress your efforts may result in your making a great deal of money. If you marry a man capable of appreciating the love you have to offer to him, great happiness ought to fill your married life.

The child born on May 25, by the time it enters its teens, usually will develop to a marked degree one of its parents' outstanding characteristics. Great success as a rule awaits this child's maturity.

If a man and May 25 is your natal day, you can, with very little effort, and by consistent work, overcome any difficulties that might confront you. As an actor, engineer, educator, author, playwright, financier, railroad man, geologist or salesman your ambition is likely to be fully realized.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York. All the talk and bluster about purging burlesque of the naughty strip act shouldn't be taken too seriously. . . . Not if the records mean anything. It is a dull day when no Black Maria backs up to the entrance of some stage door to whisk a couple of cuties down to the hard-boiled sergeant on a charge of indecent exposure. About five years ago the police put on a nightly "crusade" to cleanse the night life of its "sordidness," and it got exactly nowhere, either because the police themselves were disinterested because of too much undercover intervention.

Gypsy Rose Lee, who epitomizes every strip-girl's ambitions, has been carted off to jail. . . . Mae West, certainly no paragon of Victorianism, made frequent trips to the hoosegow during her New York days for producing and appearing in "unmoral" plays. And Flo Ziegfeld always considered it a stroke of fortune when one of his girls was arrested for appearing in less than a string of pearls.

The current peevishness is against one particular form of nudity. True it is that girls in all the night clubs are unclothed, too, but that is different. In burlesque the girls come out fully clothed and disrobe in the presence of their admiring auditors, whereas the night club lassies already are paraded down to the cuticle on their toe-nails when they make their appearance. Apparently the burlesque form of nakedness is more reprehensible. At least, from the "indignant" utterances of the officials they must think so.

Actually, burlesque girls are rarely as completely nude as those damsels found in the after-dark supper clubs. True, they wear only a couple of satin rose-buds and, as they say on Broadway, a G-string. . . . But you'll have to admit that is something, at least. . . . The night club girls often wear nothing at all.

There is just beneath the surface, a reason for the current drive against theatrical "vice." . . . To operate theaters one must have a license, and at the moment the burlesque license has expired. . . . This gives the reformers an opportunity to sandbag producers, and they are attempting to eliminate burlesque completely. Unfortunately, the night clubs all have licenses; so the police aren't even looking in their direction. . . . If they did they would be met with a mess of legal action that would probably stymie any "corrective" measures attempted. . . . This department seems skeptical, it asks tolerance on the grounds that it has seen too many previous "drives" which gained nothing other than some front page publicity for some of our high-powered public-spirited servants.

A Bystander In Washington

BY FRESTON GROVER

Washington—Too many senators want to run the nation's foreign affairs and too many ambassadors want to run its domestic affairs.

Senator Nye of North Dakota and several others became frightfully wrought up over the letter Ambassador Dodd sent from Berlin warning the nation against a plot of some unnamed billionaire to put a puppet dictator in the White House.

But almost at the same hour the state department and its outlying ambassadors were stirred to the depths when Senator Nye demanded that the state department impose an arms embargo against Germany and Italy, or show the reason why not. It was his idea that the fascist filibustering expeditions into Spain constituted a state of war which justified the United States going into the shuddering seclusion that is contemplated in the neutrality act.

In a way that amounted to a request for an investigation. The senate did not at once act on it, to the undying gratitude of the state department.

Surprise

Senator Nye is a hound for neutrality and staying out of Europe's affairs, hence the state department was wide-eyed with perplexity at his action.

But on the other hand, the senate was doing very well at confusing the court business without outside aid when Ambassador Dodd cut loose with suggestions on how to do a more complex job of it. Again Nye was out for an investigation of why he did it and who was the billionaire. And he was backed up by other senators, including Borah of Idaho, who thought the soap-box style of the ambassador's warning indicated maybe he was a little "tetched in the head."

All in all it might contribute to the peace of the nation, both home and abroad. If the senate should launch an investigation of Ambassador Dodd and his dictatorship idea, while a committee of ambassadors opened an investigation of Senator Nye and his plan for slapping a neutrality embargo on Germany and Italy.

May Cost Job

Ambassador Dodd, who has spent far more years being a college teacher of history than a diplomat, really gave the senators a fine take-off for an investigation. It isn't altogether likely such an investigation will be ordered, but the letter may cost Dodd his post. The air has been a-tingle for months with rumors he was to be replaced. He may have heard the counting and so decided on a final fighting line.

But a senate hunt for the conniving billionaire suspected by Dodd would be a thrill-hunt unrestrained. Rockefeller, Morgan and Ford have been the only ones recently menaced by the title of billionaire. But times change, and no telling what might be shaken out by a senate investigation.

Credit U. S. With Sit-Down
Paris—(U. S. As far as France is concerned, the "sit-down" strike is an American invention.

Officials of the General Confederation of Labor told The Associated Press that the stay-in strike of Goodyear Tire's Akron plant in practical application of the new occupational method.

Inspired by the success of the Goodyear strike employees of three motor and airplane factories in the Paris district occupied their plants for four days until they got higher wages and paid vacations. They were the sit-down pioneers in France.

This was the signal for the epidemic of strikes that spread over France in the summer of 1936.

Greece's first modern garage, in Athens, will have American equipment.

For Decoration Day... Clothing with $45 ear marks and $30 price marks

We can't be positive, but we don't think you'll be able to find so much style locally for so little money.

For these suits HAVE the ear marks $15—the style touches of $15 more than they ask on the price ticket. The sort of patterns that high priced tailors drape over their knees.

It's a grand opportunity for the man who has been thinking of coming to Schmidt's for the past three or four seasons, but who, for some reason, never made the grade.

Let LOWELL THOMAS tell you what an unexpected Blow-out did to this New Jersey motorist...

RALPH T. RYAN, JR., of Caldwell, New Jersey, was going East—East on Oxford Road near Montclair, New Jersey. But he almost "went West"—West on that one-way highway on which you can never turn around.

Like most motorists Ralph Ryan took his tires for granted. He never dreamed he'd have a blow-out until BANG! went his right front tire. The car lurched—zigzagged past a speeding roadster. Seconds seemed like hours before he came to a jerky stop—just in time to miss climbing a tree.

A well-known engineer told me that his organization, The B. F. Goodrich Company, in order to provide motorists with the real protection they needed against high-speed blow-outs, invented the Life-Saver Golden Ply.

The Golden Ply, as it was described to me, is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. By resisting this heat the Golden Ply keeps rubber and fabric from separating. And when the blister is prevented, you prevent the great unseen cause of high-speed blow-outs.

Taking tires for granted these days seems like a big risk for any motorist to take. The safe thing to do, I would say, would be to put safe tires on your car before the damage is done.

What's New at the Library

"Present Indicative," that much talked of book by Noel Coward, one of the foremost actors and playwrights of today, has arrived at Appleton Public Library and will be ready for circulation soon. It is Noel Coward's story, a success story in a way for it begins in poverty and ends in riches, telling the life of the author from child actor to the friend of kings. Twenty-one years of struggle lay behind the man before he bowed to King George V's congratulations at a performance of "Cavalcade."

The book is full of anecdotes, portraits of such people as Alexander Woolcott, G. B. Stern, Peggy Wood, Elsa Maxwell, actors, producers and society leaders, and it reveals the other side of the man whose private life has always been concealed behind his fame.

Racial conflict in fiction is the theme of a new fiction book, "Trumpet of Jubilee," as well as a theme which is close to the heart of the author, Ludwig Lewisohn. It tells the story of Kurt Weiss, a professional man living in Germany, a Jew but most of all a German, and on that belief he has founded his life. When he dies as a victim of his faith, his wife and son are faced with the problem of finding hope and reason in a world from which hope and reason seem to have fled.

Padraic Colum gives the legend of St. Columba, cherished by the people of Ireland, in a newly published volume, "The Legend of St. Columba," now available at the public library. The saint's growth to manhood and to power under holy guidance, the story of how he left the life of the world and entered the life of a saint of God are told. There are miraculous happenings, but enough of the day to day life of the saint to make his story fascinating reading for all young people, and it is told against a rich background of Irish folklore, church and countryside.

Bright sunny days bring a longing to get out into the open, and boating is one sport which satisfies that urge. "Boat-Owning" by William F. Crosby is valuable to the man who is interested in motor-boating, for although there are many books on sailing and sailing vessels, there are few on motor boats. These various types of boats on the market, the suitability of each for specific waters, the functions of the naval architect and yacht broker, how to buy a second-hand boat, proper care, use of charts and conduct of a cruise are discussed in this volume.

Interest in England and her affairs still holds sway throughout the world, and the combination of a book about England written by no

"Mathematics for the Million" by Lancelot Hogben shows how easy it is to master mathematics, treating the subject as a language of size. Hogben gives real reasons for everything. Count the fingers on your hands as did the men at the dawn of civilization, if you wish to know where we get our base number of 10, he says. Why do we square numbers to find the area? we ask, and he answers. Because in the early days square floorings tiles provided a reliable standard of measurement.

Biggest Land Planes
London—(P)—The first of 14 giant airliners—some to weigh 20 tons and carry 42 passengers—is building at Hamble.

These planes, to replace outmoded models on European and India routes, are said to be the world's largest land planes.

The European planes will carry 42 passengers by day; the Empire type, with a larger cargo of mails and freight, will carry 27 passengers by day, with sleeping berths for 20 passengers.

"Choosing Your Life Work" by William Rosenkranz should be a value to the professional counselor, parents, teachers and others, for it tells how an individual can analyze his own capacities, aptitudes and interests and compare them with requirements of representative occupations.

The most outstanding unpublished book of non-fiction up to last fall, for it received the Centenary Prize from Little, Brown and company for having that distinction, is "Pedlar's Progress" by Odell Shepard. It is a story of the life of Bronson Alcott, father of Louisa Mae Alcott, the author of "Little Women" and "Little Men." Mr. Shepard has lifted a hitherto neglected and little understood man to his rightful place as one of the most brilliant figures in New England's brilliant period of intellectual glory.

Scenery for Little Theater Play Is Difficult Problem

WHEN the Little Theater of the Fox River Valley presents the courtroom play, "Night of January 16," at 8:15 Thursday and Friday nights at Outagamie court house, the problem of scenery as well as stage management will have been solved ahead of time. Because the play is not being presented on a regular stage, but in the authentic setting of the circuit court room, there will be no curtain separating the players from the audience, and no stage hands will be required for there is no change of scene during the three acts.

The three acts of the play represent the three days of the trial of Karen Andre secretary and partner of Bjorn Faulkner, the murdered man. The story is told entirely through the testimony of witnesses who are in some way connected with the death of Faulkner, namely, his widow, his father-in-law, his housekeeper, the janitor in the Faulkner building, a policeman, a private detective, Faulkner's bookkeeper, a gangster, a night club entertainer, handwriting expert and medical examiner, and lastly, Karen Andre, the defendant.

Note Similarity. As the story unfolds, the similarity of the character of Faulkner to the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, is noted. Faulkner, like Kreuger, built up a huge international business based on fraud, then planned a fake suicide in order to escape the crash and leave the country secretly. Something went wrong and Faulkner was murdered, and his secretary was charged with the murder.

Milwaukee is bidding for the national convention in 1941, and a representative of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce spoke to the state group concerning it. A feature of the program was a talk by Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman of Richmond, Va., past president of the national federation, Saturday morning on the theme, "More Conservation and Less Conversation," and a boat trip around the Wisconsin Dells Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Among those who attended from Appleton were the Misses Lynda Hollenbeck, Laura Fischer, Helen Fructer, Maxine Cahall, Alvina Ahl, Catherine Nooyan, Irene Reinke, Agnes and Myrtle Van Ryzin, Josephine Patton, Lucille Lilje, Isla Thompson, Ruth Daves, Mabel Sibley, Vera Pynn and Mrs. Esther Swanson.

Person's Speech Reflects His Background, Training

BY ANGELO PATRI

Our tongue lends itself to lazy speech. It is so difficult to pronounce some of our words clearly, sounding the essential vowels and consonants that we take shortcuts and slur them into sounds that by long usage grow more and more foreign to their original sound.

"Whatcha doin'?"
"Doncha wishya noo?"
The two boys understood each other, of course, but who else would, or who would wish to interpret such sounds? Children are not alone in their carelessness. They are following copy rather closely. Speech is largely imitative in the young.

Clear, correct speech is no mean accomplishment, and its achievement marks one who has an intelligent mind and a will to back it up. Speech has its effect on thinking. Thinking has its effect on speech in return. One thing is certain. The child who is taught to speak with clarity and precision is more likely to think that way. That gives him an immediate advantage in all social relations.

People find it hard to listen for any length of time to even a well-modulated, clearly spoken message. They soon give up trying to hear a speech that is uttered in blurred and broken sounds that may or may not suggest familiar words. People of affairs will not give any time to one whose speech marks him as under-taught, under-practiced in the use of his tongue. They put him down either as ignorant or stupid and they want nothing further to do with him.

A person's speech betrays his background and his training as nothing else can do. Good clothes, a session with the beauty-barber-masseuse-baths cover a multitude of secrets, but once the tongue utters a word, the true background of the personality is disclosed. Either it is right and acceptable, or it is not, and that is settled swiftly, at a breath.

There is no reason why any American school child should not acquire a clear speech, a well-modulated voice, a good vocabulary. He is offered every opportunity to acquire them in school. Occasions for practice are as numerous as minutes of the school session. Too often children, especially those of the middle and upper elementary grades, feel self-conscious about talking correctly, and some of them, those who can least afford it, go out of their way to practice the wrong way. One boy, on being asked to make an oral report in class said: "Do I have to talk school style the just everyday style?" If it were school style he wanted to beg off. It was too much work and anyway the kids would laugh at him!

All this is natural enough. Correct speech is difficult for children beginning to learn the use of a language. But early childhood is the time for this learning. Between the ages of five and ten, roughly, children acquire the life-time habits of speech. It is during these years that they have to be held strictly to account for what they say and how they say it. Once the habit is set it remains.

Make no mistake about this. Speech, the manner and the substance of it, is highly important in deciding the success or failure of a young person.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing three cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Progress of the Telephone

1-SOUND AND ELECTRICITY

Before the days of the telephone and the telephone, sound could not travel nearly so fast as it does today. If a person shouted, and if the wind was right, his voice might be heard at a distance of half a mile, or a little more. There was no way for his voice to carry across the ocean, however, or even across a lake a few miles wide.

An Early Telephone

Let us suppose, however, that some mighty voice could carry across the Atlantic—how long would it take to be heard? To figure that out, we can count five seconds a mile as the rate sound travels through the air.

A shout from New York to London would be heard about four hours after it was uttered. If a New York man shouted, "How are you?" at noon, and a London man shouted back, "I'm feeling fine!" the reply would be heard about 8 o'clock in the evening.

That would be a slow way to talk back and forth! It is not a possible way, either, and I am glad of it. A world with such loud voices would be too noisy.

People can talk across the Atlantic without shouting. By using the telephone, they can obtain an answer to a short question in a second or two. This is due to the magic of an invention made only 61 years ago.

Alexander Graham Bell is honored as the inventor of the telephone. He was not the only one who labored on it, but should have credit for his fine work. Many other men worked to improve the early telephone, and the instrument we have today is the product of many inventors.

Sound travels fast through the telephone because it is carried by electric waves which go through wires. A word can be heard thousands of miles away in just a part of a second.

Early telephones looked a good deal like boxes, and indeed are spoken of as "box telephones." A person talked into the "transmitter," then turned his head so he could put his ear where his mouth had been. That was the same plan followed in tin-can toy telephones, but there was a big difference! Words spoken into Bell's telephone were carried at great speed over a long distance—thanks to electricity.

When I say "long distance," I am thinking of what seemed long right after the invention was made. When Bell talked over a wire two miles in length, back in 1876, it seemed "a wonder of the world."

Use Attacking Lead to Win Tricks Immediately

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Against trump contracts there are two types of leads which you may make, depending upon the nature of your hand. They are attacking leads and protecting leads. The purpose of an attacking lead is to win tricks immediately. A protecting lead is made to avoid leading from tenace positions, and to wait until the lead can come toward your high cards.

Preferred Attacking Leads
The finest attacking lead is from a suit headed by both ace and king. You lead the king, which almost always will hold the first trick. This gives you an opportunity to continue the suit, if it seems advisable to win as many tricks as possible in that suit immediately, or to lead another suit if the nature of the dummy indicates a favorable shift. Only slightly less favorable are leads from complete sequences (K Q J, Q J 10, J 10 9). These leads enable you to establish winners in the suit you open, yet you are not sacrificing the value of your honors as you would be if you led a suit headed by a tenace. Incomplete sequences (K Q 10, Q J 9, J 10 8) may be led in about the same circumstances, but are not nearly as good.

TODAY'S HAND
"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I am enclosing a hand that came up here recently on which occurred the most astounding psychic bid we ever have encountered. The player in the South seat was the secretary of the Chinese legation in this capital. This was the hand:

North Dealer.

Against trump contracts there are two types of leads which you may make, depending upon the nature of your hand. They are attacking leads and protecting leads. The purpose of an attacking lead is to win tricks immediately. A protecting lead is made to avoid leading from tenace positions, and to wait until the lead can come toward your high cards.

Preferred Attacking Leads
The finest attacking lead is from a suit headed by both ace and king. You lead the king, which almost always will hold the first trick. This gives you an opportunity to continue the suit, if it seems advisable to win as many tricks as possible in that suit immediately, or to lead another suit if the nature of the dummy indicates a favorable shift. Only slightly less favorable are leads from complete sequences (K Q J, Q J 10, J 10 9). These leads enable you to establish winners in the suit you open, yet you are not sacrificing the value of your honors as you would be if you led a suit headed by a tenace. Incomplete sequences (K Q 10, Q J 9, J 10 8) may be led in about the same circumstances, but are not nearly as good.

In this case I would not for a moment detract from South's glory in having 'psyched' East and West out of their laydown game in spades. The fact remains that South's spade bid could not have succeeded except against pitifully weak opponents. There is a point involved, however, that I believe worthy of comment. ## Three Things Insure You a Neat Coiffure

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Do you want a coiffure that keeps? I can almost hear you answer "What a question!" My point, however, is: do you want it enough to do three important things to insure its keeping?

The first essential is a good permanent. But, mind, I say the first essential. Some women make the mistake of expecting the permanent to take care of the coiffure as long as the permanent lasts. If you expect that of your permanent, you are doomed to disappointment. And that, no matter how good your wave, because all that a permanent can do; all that it is expected to do, is to transform straight hair into hair that has waves in it. But those waves do not fall into the sort of pattern that you expect and desire of a finished hairstyle. The very nature of the permanent waving process, the winding and steaming makes for a certain amount of irregularity and symmetry in the waves. But you, naturally, want a coiffure with curls and waves and treatment strategically placed to balance your face, to flatter you and your features.

First—A Good Permanent
This does not mean that you can do without the permanent. I repeat: your first step is a good permanent, one that will leave your hair soft, silky, pliable, easily managed. With a good permanent as a foundation there is more chance of the hairstyle staying "in" less chance of it going the way of all flesh the following morning. Remember that a permanent is neither the beginning nor end of all hair care.

Second—Proper Cutting
The next step is proper cutting and thinning of the hair so that it will follow the very lines of your hairstyle. Such cutting can only be done with a razor. The scissors won't do it. The thinning shears won't do it. In the hands of an expert actually molds and thins the hair, strand by strand so that it follows the contour of the head and falls into the line of the coiffure.

Third—Styling By One Who Knows
The third step is the actual setting and styling by one who knows how. And entrust your hair only to one who knows. If you want a hairstyle that is really beautiful and becoming, just a little different, one that will do things for you, you can't hope to have such work done except in the hands of an expert. If your hair has been properly permanented, and cut and is cleverly styled and set, the setting should "keep"—at least from one shampoo to the next.

One of the country's leading hair stylists contends that these three steps should absolutely guarantee a coiffure that keeps. So much so that he even debunks the necessity of wearing a hairnet. He believes in "free" hair. But, perhaps that's expected too much of hair that is not naturally wavy.

My bulletin on "The Permanent" may help you. Send a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope with your request for it. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent. (Copyright, 1937) believes that West was the one to blame for the success of the psychic. That he "had better reason to see through the artifice." In defense of West I rise to say that, in effect, he did "see through it." Did he not make a penalty double of one spade? It was East who failed to appreciate the situation, and this is where a general point arises.

With West doubling a one bid for penalties and East seeing in his own hand the A K 10 six times of the hand he should not have at least occurred to him that South was "attempting a fast one." West could not have doubled on fewer than four spades, with five or six more probable. Even the first named quantity would leave South with a maximum of three and, therefore, East could be certain that the spade bid was "phony."

To make this point clearer it should be observed that a penalty double of a one or two bid is almost the same as a bid in that suit. Thus,

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

Most Marriages That End Do So During Third Year

BY DOROTHY DIX

According to some recently compiled divorce statistics the third year of marriage is the time when romance oftenest goes bloomy, young husbands and wives decide that marriage is a failure and throw up their hands and quit cold. Only 65 per cent of the people who get married stay married ten years, says this authority, but it is mostly the three-year-olds who clutter up the divorce courts with their pleas to have their matrimonial balls and chains removed.

DOROTHY DIX

After marriage there may have been a let-down for other people, when West doubled one spade, he was, in effect, bidding spades. East might have strained a point and indicated good spade support.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

At first thought it seems a little odd that there should be a definite time table on love's young dream, but when you consider it soberly and seriously you easily see how this can happen. It takes about three years for the honeymoon to set and the bride's trousseau to wear out. When these two tragedies occur coincidentally something is bound to break, and that something seems to be the marriage bond.

It is one of the curious things about marriage that we learn nothing from other people's experience, or our own observations of matrimony in general. Every starchy-eyed bride and bridegroom who march to the altar believes that they are going to spend the next forty or fifty years living at the high peak of emotion; that they are goldlings, and that their world is going to be lined with pink chiffon.

but not for them. Other couples might take each other for granted. Not they. Other husbands and wives might get on each other's nerves and fight, but such a catastrophe couldn't possibly happen to them.

And every bride and bridegroom believe that love is enough; that if they can just be together they will desire no other society; that if they can have each other they will not miss the comforts and luxuries and amusements to which they have been accustomed. So they marry under these hallucinations, and it takes about three years, on an average, for them to be cured and come back to normal.

Then they find that love is only the menagerie on the lemon pie of life, and that underneath it are the realities of everyday existence. The clashing personalities of a man and woman, temper and temperament; work and sacrifice; disappointment and disillusion; things that burn romance to ashes. Being spoiled children they won't play any more because the game isn't as much fun as they thought it would be. They take their doll rags and go home to Mother.

Then they find that love isn't enough, and that they love their appetites for bread and cheese and kisses when there are no cakes and ale to vary it. They discover that after marriage they want to step out and have good times, just as they did before marriage; that they still take an interest in new clothes; that they still prefer automobiles to street cars and fillet mignon to corned beef, and when they realize that marriage means a lower scale of living and wearing patched shoes, and last year's hats, and coking and washing and scrubbing and doing without a fresh water wave, why, being young and soft, they just can't take it.

Another reason why so many marriages go on the rocks in their third year is because the young couple have not gotten over their mothers' spoiling. They are still "Mamma children," as old nurses say, used to being petted, indulged, waited on hand and foot, having everybody give up to them, and when two such self-centered egotists try living together there is bound to be conflict. The "cruel and inhuman treatment" which is the basis of the divorce plea so many young couples, simply means that their husband and wives didn't treat them as their mothers did.

Another final reason why so many marriages only last three years is because the husband and wife are too young to have learned the fine art of getting along amicably with other people. They are headstrong and conceited and intolerant and determined to rule. They have not tact or savvy. They do not know how to handle each other with gloves, nor how to gumshoe around each other's peculiarities and prejudices instead of plunging into them. And so it is no wonder that their marriages are so short-lived.

But, at any rate, the fact that more divorces are granted to couples during their third year of marriage than at any other time should make every young couple watch their step when they reach that danger period.

DOROTHY DIX.

These eight photographs tell the Horatio Alger story of John D. Rockefeller. 1—As a youth of 18. At that age, after having worked three years as a clerk, he had saved a thousand dollars. He borrowed another thousand and became a commission merchant. 2—This picture was taken in 1864, two years after he went into the oil business. 3—When he had the great Standard Oil monopoly at its zenith in 1896. At that time, Rockefeller was almost bald, and a few years later he began wearing a wig. 4—The famous anti-trust case in American history probably was against the Standard Oil Co. Judge Keneaw Mountain Landis fined it $29,000,000 and ordered it to dissolve. This picture was taken in 1906, at the time of that decision. 5—In 1911, after he had retired. 6—At 83, 1922. 7—On the Florida golf links, 10 years later. 8—In Florida, 1933, convalescing after two weeks' illness.

Rockefeller Spent First Half of Life Making Money; Second Giving It Away

John Davison Rockefeller spent the first half of his life making money and the last giving it away. "I believe it is a duty," he said many times, "for a man to get all the money he honestly can and to give away all he can."

His career described an almost perfect arc.

At the age of 16 he began, with nothing. He was paid $50 for his first three months' work as assistant bookkeeper in a produce commission warehouse on the lake front in Cleveland, Ohio.

By the time he had reached middle age he had amassed what many persons believed to be the largest fortune ever controlled by a private individual in the history of the world.

At the age of 57 he began to withdraw from active business life and started giving money away. In 35 years he gave away considerably more than half a billion dollars, and one of his associates remarked that the world would be surprised at the comparatively small estate he would leave when he died.

The size of Mr. Rockefeller's fortune has been a subject for public conjecture for many years. It has never been revealed. While some estimated it as high as $2,400,000,000, persons close to Mr. Rockefeller place it at a much lower figure. His son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., once said that it had never reached a billion. For many years, however, Mr. Rockefeller paid the highest personal property tax in New York City. It ran to more than $1,000,000 a year.

A statement given out at the Rockefeller office in 1923, on his 53th birthday, revealed that in the 18 years since 1910 he had given away publicly $443,832,644. His largest gift had been $182,704,624 to the Rockefeller Foundation, chartered "to promote the welfare of mankind in all parts of the world."

Other Large Gifts

Other great gifts included, in round numbers, $129,000,000 to the General Education Board; $74,000,000 to the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial, founded to perpetuate the charity practiced by his wife; $40,000,000 to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and $35,000,000 to the University of Chicago.

Mr. Rockefeller began his retirement in 1896, but retained the title of president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey until November, 1911. That was just after the Standard Oil combination had been dissolved by federal court decree.

In 1923, nearly 20 years later, he publicly emerged from his retirement on two occasions. Early that year he announced that he would support his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in an effort to prevent the election of Col. Robert W. Stewart as director and chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. He was then 89 years old.

Statement After Crash

In October, 1929, when there was a crash in Wall Street, he issued from Pocantico Hills a reassuring statement in which he said that he and his son did not believe there was anything in the business situation to warrant the destruction of values recorded in the preceding year. "I'll come right away, for I want to borrow a great deal more."

When Drake struck oil in Pennsylvania, in 1859, there was a rush to the new field of wealth from all parts of the country. But the young merchant stayed out, questioning and studying, for more than two years. Then he and his partner joined with Samuel Andrews, who had learned the art of cleansing and refining petroleum. Under the title of Andrews, Clark and Co. they organized a separate firm to refine oil and built a small refinery on the bank of Kingsbury Run, near Cleveland.

This business, by mutual consent, was put up at auction in 1865, and Mr. Rockefeller bought it in at $72,500. Thus began the firm of Rockefeller and Andrews, which grew within five years into the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, incorporated in January, 1870, with a capital of $1,000,000—a vast sum in those days. In the meantime Mr. Rockefeller's brothers, William and Frank, besides Henry M. Flagler, Stephen V. Harkness and several others, had joined the enterprise. Less than 10 years had passed since Mr. Rockefeller entered the oil business.

Wed in 1864

The year before Mr. Rockefeller bought up the assets of Andrews, Clark and Company he had entered another partnership, destined to last half a century. In the Cleveland High school in 1853 one of his classmates was Laura Cestia Spelman, daughter of a merchant of Akron, Ohio. They were married Sept. 8, 1864, and for nearly 51 years shared an ideal life.

Mr. Rockefeller cared little for social activities outside the circle of family friends. She gave much attention to rearing and training her children to the work of the church and the Sunday school and to charities.

She died suddenly of heart disease on March 12, 1915, at Pocantico Hills, while her husband was in the south. For several years she had been unable to go to church, and it was Mr. Rockefeller's custom to bring her notes of the sermons.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller were the parents of five children. One died in infancy. The others were: Eliza, who became Mrs. E. Farnham; Prentice of New York; Edith, who married Harold McCormick of Chicago in 1895, divorced him in 1922 and died several years ago; John D. Jr., of New York, who married Abby Greene Aldrich, daughter of the late Nelson W. Aldrich, U. S. senator from Rhode Island, and Bessie, who died a number of years ago. She was the wife of Charles A. Strong, formerly a professor of psychology of Columbia University.

Speculative Industry

From the beginning the oil industry was highly speculative. Thousands of men with all sorts of business experience and many more with no real training dashed into the field to get rich quick. It was a good deal the same as it was when the gold fields of California, Texas and southern California, when a new well was brought in with a big flow, scores of men drove other wells with frantic haste near by. Often the petroleum had to be stored in pools, on the ground. The oil market alternated violently between feast and famine as new gushers came in or old wells ran dry and prices varied accordingly. These sudden fluctuations in the late '60s wrecked many refineries.

But John D. Rockefeller and his

When this picture of Mr. Rockefeller was made in July, 1936, on his 97th birthday, newspapers were warned that this probably would be his last posed photograph. His health was failing and it was reported that the aged oil magnate did not care to again "dress up" for photographers.

Taxes for Social Purposes May Have Eased 1929 Panic

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—In a recent series of speeches at Chapel Hill, N. C., secretary Wallace recommended that excess savings be taxed, and said, "I can't help thinking it would have been a healthy thing of this nation, if, during the decade of the '20s, the federal government had taken a higher percentage of the savings for social purposes."

Mr. Wallace referred to large incomes only, and the proposal is hardly as brutal as it sounds, for much of the accumulated savings that he had in mind was lost anyway in the great panic of 1929 and after. Taken by the government for the purpose suggested, the money might have done some good, and eased the force of the crash.

And, anyway, savings are taxed even now, so Mr. Wallace's proposal is a mere matter of definition and rate. The problem is only to decide at what point excess sets in and how the excess is to be confiscated for the general good. Perhaps Mr. Wallace would capture all savings in excess.

But nobody in the government would have the temerity to suggest that accumulations of property and money by religious, charitable, scientific and educational institutions be scrutinized for excess and taxed at the same rate. Organizations of this kind do amass enormous fortunes, but the spirit of the income tax toward them is one of political fear, and other taxing bodies hold them in the same awe.

They acquire land and buildings which are used in competition with tax-paying private owners, and the same private owners are then required to assume the tax burden of their competitors. It is true that after painful experience with the powerful Methodist prohibition lobby, Congress amended the income tax law to withdraw the exemption from such organizations if they attempted to influence legislation by propaganda or otherwise.

Treasury Has Not Applied Principle of Amendment
But the treasury has not had the firmness to apply the plain letter and intent of this amendment, and it is doubtful that the department would be any more daring about the application of an excess savings law to institutional holders even though Congress plainly included them in an act.

Since the amendment was written into the revenue act there have been many cases of interference with the examiners if the recipients were private parties. But treasury has taken no action, and, in fact, nobody but a political hero and martyr would do so.

In the long ago it may have been wise to waive taxes on the properties of organization described in the act. The original intention may have pictured them as entirely devoted to the service of man, and in the long ago it may have been wise to waive taxes on the properties of organization described in the act. The original intention may have pictured them as entirely devoted to the service of man, and in the long ago it may have been wise to waive taxes on the properties of organization described in the act.

It would be unwise, indeed, to propose taxation on properties actually devoted to the purposes specified, but other wealth in vast amount often invites the curiosity of the common tax-payer.

out in to the garden. For several hours, he basked in the Florida sunshine and appeared refreshed. On Saturday morning he conferred briefly with his senior secretary, Ward Madison.

"I am very tired," he said wistfully. At noon, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made a routine telephone call from New York and was assured there was no immediate cause for alarm and nothing about his father's condition to warrant a special trip to Florida.

Saturday night, the aged man lapsed into a slight coma. The next day, he awoke, and the next day, he died. He was buried in the family vault at the Forest Hill cemetery in New York City.

"There, that's better." At 2 o'clock a. m., he roused to murmur something to his valet of 20 years, John H. Yordi.

He asked to be raised higher in his bed, and when it was done, he whispered faintly:

"There, that's better." So far as is known, those were his last words. Apparently he had no realization that the end was near. He closed his eyes, and two hours later, in the hush of the Sabbath dawn, he breathed his last.

His death was formally signalled to the outside world at 5:30 a. m. by the death of a young man employed on the estate raised a worn American flag to the top of the flagpole at "The Casements" and then lowered it to half-staff.

Beyond the statement that his estate was "relatively small," no immediate information was forthcoming as to how much the one-time multimillionaire retained for his personal needs.

He had disposed of most of his vast holdings, however, as early as 1922. In that year, according to a report to Congress, he paid a tax of only $12,063.03 on his net income.

Almost a legendary figure to generations which have grown up in the last 30 or 40 years, the "modern Midas" as he was sometimes called, nobled his public attention with clock-like regularity once a year on his birthday.

Otherwise, except when his natal anniversary brought forth the familiar pictures of his frail, stooped-shouldered figure with the silvery toupce, the sunken, parchment-like face and deep-set, twinkling blue eyes, he lived in quiet seclusion—an almost forgotten anachronism of America's roaring industrial pioneer days.

Yet to the last he clung tenaciously to life. He was supremely confident he would reach 100.

Guarded His Health

"Then," he said, with a quiet chuckle, "I'll really begin to live." His major concern, in the last two decades, was to prolong his life as much as possible. Physicians constantly checked on his physical condition, watching his diet, regulating his exercise and relaxation. His habits were clock-like, all ordered with a view to conserving his health.

He traveled with the seasons, spending the winter at Ormond Beach and the summer either at his Lakewood, N. J. home or at Yonkers, N. Y. He lived on a diet of at least 75 percent vegetables. He rose reg-

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

Chapter 44
Pure Happiness

GEORGE hurried straight to her with a face like a happy boy's and his hands outstretched. It wasn't true—it wasn't, couldn't be true. But it was his arms were around her closely and desperately as if she weren't real, as if she would vanish.

"Listen, dear love. Don't speak. Don't try to get away. It's all right. All right always."

She tried to move from him weakly. He pressed her head against his shoulder, sitting by her on the low couch.

"Wait—wait till I can be quiet enough to tell you—," he said a little unsteadily. "It wasn't any use trying to lie to Ellen. She said she knew it was true. She said—Eve, I hate to tell you this, but she said I must—that she'd known I didn't love her. But she'd thought I would—and knowing I loved you. She said—she said, when you were engaged to Carter, she told you she cared and I didn't."

"I know. I've been her confidante from the first. That's why I couldn't hurt her—," Eve said at random.

"She said—she couldn't be so wicked as to hold what belonged to someone else. Eve, in heaven's name what made you refuse me the other night, for pure happiness?" he asked harshly.

"Because I was stupid. Because I didn't know you were asking me, if you will believe it, George! It was when you went away I realized how much I loved you. George I was going to tell you I did love you if you still wanted me when you came back from Sharon. I had found it out."

Laughter After Tears

He said abruptly, as if saying her something in return for what she had given him. "I was going to marry her because I was desperate. I'd lost my last hope of you."

"I knew. But oh, George, my poor Ellen!"

"She said," he told her huskily, "to tell you she had her work and she had her prayers, and it wasn't the end of the road."

"Oh, she is so wonderful!"

Eve broke down, crying for brave, steadfast Ellen as she had never cried for herself.

"That's enough," George said. "Think about me now, Eve. Do you know I'm not sure of you yet? I've wanted you so long, and it's been—hard. Make me sure, my Eve."

She leaned to him, pulling him close, kissing him. "Be sure."

After a little she laughed—how good to laugh for pure happiness!

"And what about the child hanging round your neck?" he forgot all about poor little Judge."

"Judge has been as much my responsibility as yours all summer, you foolish child." He paused for a moment and spoke more gravely. "You know what my mother's like. Eve, I've never had a home. These evenings last spring in your old back parlor, with Uncle Henry and you and the kid, and Dad now and again—why, Eve, they were the nearest to a home I ever had. I want to go on with that, and more—our own children, our own roots, and our own memories and associations."

"You're so gay and lovely, so made to be the center of things! Sometimes I wonder if I ought to expect you to be happy with a man like me. I'm not brilliant or amusing, or even awfully fond of wild parties. I love you so that I suppose I'll try to give you whatever sort of life you want, even if you are like Mother, hating home life and staying in bed except for affairs. But I'd hate it. I want you the way you've been this summer, my close friend and companion, as well as—this."

"I Know I Want Roots"

Presently she moved a little from him, the better to answer. The Eve of a year ago tonight might have laughed, might have reassured him with a half-mocking extravagance. But this Eve answered as slowly as she had spoken, and as quietly.

"I want that too, George. Companionship and understanding, as well as love—or maybe as the best part of love I want our daughters to play house with the old lacquer cabinet and remember it always in the same place; and our sons to have a place they'll always remember as home; trees they've always climbed and friends they've always known. I—I know I want roots, for mine and me." Her lovely brown eyes smiled at him. "But even if I didn't like the life you like, dear, it would be better than any other life, because it was shared with you. You see, George, I believe I love you very much in the same way you love me."

George, as he had told her, was not a very unlike man. He only held her tight there in the golden autumn orchard and said "Eve, darling."

That Eve of a year ago might have been laughing, evasive. This Eve only raised a slim tanned arm and broke a great golden yellow apple, one of those George's work had brought to perfection.

"Our orchard is bearing well," she said softly. "Shall we go home now?"

Gulp and Shudder Is American Way to Down Liquor, Expert Says

Chicago—(U)—A gulp and a shudder is the American technique of drinking liquor, says Harry L. Louie, executive secretary of the National Association of Alcoholic Beverage Importers. He thinks it's all wrong, too.

"The average American picks up a shot glass of a fine old rye, bourbon or corn in his right hand, resists vaguely with his left and then tosses it off with an expert flip says Louie."

"The fine old liquor splashes against the back of his throat, rushes down into his stomach and begins to burn. Here the drinker gives three shudders, wipes his lips with the back of his hand and says, 'Ah there was a drink.'"

Louie says any liquor fit to drink is fit to sip and that one gets the flavor of the liquor by sipping and sniffing its aroma.

Two Rivers 12, Green Bay 6.

KIMBERLY—The village of Little Chute went one up on the village of Kimberly in the sports world here yesterday afternoon when the Legion baseball team downed the Papermakers, 3 to 1, in Northern State-league play. It was the third straight victory for the Chuters and the second straight defeat for the Papermakers against one win.

Boasting an infield whose work sparked all afternoon, Little Chute overcame an early Kimberly lead and then went on to mop almost as it pleased. The Chuters turned in several nice stops and in the last four innings clicked off three double plays which ended Kimberly's attempts at rallies.

Richard Weisberger was on the mound for Little Chute and allowed seven hits. In the first inning he was wilder than a sailor ashore for the first time in three months and walked four men and forced in a Papermaker run. He walked five for the whole game and struck out four.

Behr Gives Hits
Art Behr hurled for the Papermakers and allowed six hits. He too, was troubled with wildness at highly inopportune times and uncorked two wild pitches which permitted runners to score from third base. The veteran southpaw had his strikeout ball working all most perfectly and whiffed seven Chuters. He issued no walks.

The work of the Little Chute infield was paced by Howie Ellis, second baseman. He handled six assists during the afternoon and although he bobbled several grounders, he got his men just the same. The one really hard stop of the day, a terrific grounder over to his left, Ellis fielded perfectly. "Baker" Versteeg at third, turned in a nice stop on L. May's grounder.

In the third and had four assists and one putout. Weisberger had four assists on the hill while Peotter had thirteen putouts at first base. Several of the throws were particularly bad but he snared them. For Kimberly, Sven Bowman turned in the fielding gem with long running catches of four flies.

Kimberly scored its first run in the last of the first. Cully Zenith, Oshkosh, who was supposed to have signed with the Indians, but who apparently didn't, turned up in a Papermaker uniform and led off. He walked. LeMay also walked and Chuter fans were beginning to wonder whether Weisberger would ever locate the plate.

Run Forced In
Stoenbauer, Oshkosh, attempted a bunt which Weisberger fielded and tossed to third erasing Zenith. Strick walked to fill the bases and when Bowman walked, LeMay scored. Horn then breezed and Cashman rolled to Weisberger to end the inning.

Little Chute batters, for the first three frames, marched to the plate in groups of three and marched right back to the bench with nothing resembling a hit off Behr. As the first of the fourth opened however, things began to happen. Lu-

Davis Cup Zone Finals Scheduled This Week

New York — (4) — Eight young men—four Australians and four Americans—will volley the tennis world to and fro this weekend at Forest Hills with the American zone final of the Davis Cup play hanging to their chairs.

The Australians, Vivian McGrath, Adrian Quist, Jack Crawford, and Johnny Brown, have come bounding across the equator with an amazing repertoire of strokes and an ardent yen for the cup.

Likewise America's team, Don Budge, Gene Mako, Bryan Bistay Grant and Frank Parker, are in the spotlight, heightened by 10 years of longing for the trophy, held for the last four years by England.

The loss by the British of pro Fred Perry has weakened the British team, while Germany has only the brilliant Baron Gottfried Von Cramm.

Milnar Chased as Columbus Comes From Behind in Nightcap

CHICAGO—(4) — It took the Kansas City Blues some time to get their long range artillery unlimbered, but apparently it's ready for heavy duty now.

The Blues set what is believed to be an American Association mark yesterday in defeating Toledo 13 to 10 after losing 6 to 3 in the first game of a doubleheader. The Blues knocked out three home runs in one inning, the seventh, when Jim Oglesby, Al Marchand and pinch-hitter Stump hit for the circuit.

Marchand and Aglesby got two in the game and Roy Cullenbine hit one for the Hens.

Toledo scored five runs in the third to win the first game as Joe Sullivan pitched steady, 9-hit ball. Milwaukee, champions in 1936 and current leaders, ran into trouble at Columbus, dropping two games to the scrappy Red Birds.

Max Lanier allowed the Brewers only one earned run as the Birds took the first, 7 to 1, with a 15-hit attack. After Milwaukee had piled up a lead in the first five frames of the nightcap, Columbus chased Al Milnar off the hill in the seventh to come from behind to win.

Johnny Rizzo, Columbus leftfielder, hit safely in both games to run his consecutive game hitting streak to 33.

Louisville took both games from Minneapolis, winning the first 5 to 3 and the nightcap 5 to 1.

Indianapolis and St. Paul divided their twin bill, the Saints taking the opener 7 to 4 largely through a third inning, 4-run offense. Vance Page's fine pitching resulted in a 7 to 2 Tribe win in the nightcap.

Pete DeLain Takes Second Place in Riverview Club Contest

Three ties resulted in the cross country air race held at Riverview Country club over the weekend. Prizes for the race, which was held under favorable "flying" conditions, were decided by drawing.

Roy Purdy won first prize by landing in St. Louis in 15 hops. Pete DeLain landed at the same airport with the same number of hops but took second place on the draw. R. W. Getschow and C. Riggle were close behind, each landing in Kansas City with 14 hops. Charles Henderson and Dr. R. C. Joyce, both reached Amarillo and netted 13 hops each.

Hayes' Home Run Keeps Athletics In First Place

Yankees Continue in Second With Victory Over Indians

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
ONNIE MACK, who's been pulling rabbits out of hats for years to the astonishment of his American league enemies, is doing it with mirrors now.

After looking over, under and around those amazing Athletics, their batting averages, fielding frolics and a likely looking set of young pitchers, there doesn't appear any other answer to what's holding them up there.

As a team, they're hitting last in the league. They're fielding .963, sixth in the loop.

Yet, there they are, up front in the American league driver's seat. There may be some sort of explanation in the fact they've demonstrated an uncanny ability to make their own breaks. Inning after inning they'll go along behind. Then things start to pop—and out come the A's on top.

Yesterday, however, they didn't fool around. Frankie Hayes (batting average .255) stepped up to the plate in the third inning with two strikes aboard and slapped one of Oral Hildebrandt's slants out of the lot, paving the way for a 6-2 win over the sinking St. Louis Browns.

Selkirk Gets Homer
The victory left them just a percentage shade over the Yankees who walloped Cleveland's Indians, 7-3, with George Selkirk scoring his seventh homer as 59,492 fans, biggest crowd of the season, looked on.

New York's Giants pulled one out of the fire in their opener at Pittsburgh in topping the Bucs 6-5. For eight innings, Cy Blanton had them baffled. In the ninth, they connected for four runs and the ball game.

Dizzy Dean, making his first start since last week's "Battle of St. Louis," gave up 11 hits but was still good enough to top the Phillies 6-2, thereby dropping the Quaker City sluggers into the National league cellar, since the Cincinnati Reds whipped Brooklyn 6-2, to pull up to seventh.

Tommy Bridges produced a 7-hit, 7-0 victory over Detroit at Washington 13-3 take over third place in the American league.

The Chicago White Sox went 10 innings before belting the Boston Red Sox 6-4 with a 3-run spurge in the extreme frame.

Charley Root turned in the day's best pitching effort, handcuffing the Boston Bees with five hits and seven strikeouts for an 11-1 win for the Chicago Cubs.

OSHKOSH BOYS WIN NET TITLE

Neenah—Receiving the Wisconsin high schools doubles championship trophy are Bob Negedank, left, and Garner Ziebell, center, of Oshkosh High school. Presenting the trophy is Hugh Strange, Neenah, president of the Doly Tennis club. The pair won the award by defeating Coleman and Corcoran of Shorewood, 6-2, 6-2, in the doubles finals of the state tennis tourney at Neenah Saturday.

Oshkosh Netters Cop State Doubles Title

NEENAH—Playing steady, effortless tennis, Garner Ziebell and Bob Negedank, Oshkosh, defeated Coleman and Corcoran of Shorewood, 6-2, 6-2, to win the doubles championship, and give their school first place in the eighth annual state high school tennis tournament here Saturday.

George Fobian, West Allis, was crowned Wisconsin high school singles champion when he took two straight sets from Walter Hasse of Two Rivers, 6-3, 6-2, giving his school second place in tournament standings with five points.

In the playoff for third place in the singles, Bill Moody of Manitowoc won over Dave Ryan, Neenah, 9-7, 6-1, while Manitowoc defeated Milwaukee Washington, 11-9, 6-2, to win third place in the doubles and delegate the Milwaukee pair to fourth place.

Third place in tournament standings went to Shorewood High school for its second place in the doubles. Two Rivers and Manitowoc tied for fourth place. Two Rivers for its second place in the singles and Manitowoc for its third place in both the doubles and the singles. Milwaukee Washington placed fifth with one point.

Ryan Loses in Series
Despite a high wind which interfered with the flight of the ball, ability to place the ball at any point in the court gave Fobian singles honors. Earlier he defeated Bill Moody, third place winner, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0, and in the quarter finals won over Eisenhut, Racine, 7-5, 4-8, 7-5. Hasse, second place winner, defeated Dave Ryan of Neenah, 8-6, 6-0.

Picked as tourney winners after the first round, Ziebell and Negedank rode through the meet never going over two sets to down their opponents. The pair defeated Gratz and Graslneck, fourth place winners, in the semi-finals and won over Janesville in the quarter-finals, 6-1, 6-1.

Although Neenah copped only a fourth place in the tournament, some credit goes to the school for producing Herb Fisher, who graduated here in 1922 and Saturday came back with a tournament winner in the person of Fobian, singles champ.

Americans Try For Golfing Title

Not Considered Serious Threat in British Amateur Meet
Sandwich, Eng. — (4) — Young Richard Lunn, of Washington, D. C., gave the United States a poor start in the British amateur golf championship today, losing 3 and 2 to Jacques Leglise, the French amateur, in the opening round over the Royal St. George's course.

R. A. Stranahan, of Toledo, scratched.

Only one American, Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., has the British worried.

Eleven other Americans are among the 223 entries, but the exports figure Chapman alone is a real threat to capture the title which Hector Thompson is not defending because of poor health.

U. W. '9' to End Season Against Northwestern

Madison — (4) — No longer a contender for the championship, the University of Wisconsin baseball team will complete its Western conference schedule Friday in a game with Northwestern at Evanston.

The Badgers lost to Illinois Saturday, 5 and 3, and blasted hopes of creating a 3-way race for the title between themselves, Illinois and Indiana in the final games of the season.

With Illinois virtually assured of the championship, the Wisconsin line can fare no worse than third place, whether they win or lose against Northwestern.

Non-conference games with Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., May 29 and Western State at Madison May 31 will complete the season schedule.

Bonduel scored in the first on an error and two singles and scored four more in the fourth on four hits and two bases on balls. Seymour scored in the second on Hartjes' home run, tied it up in the sixth when, with two out, Nickodem singled, Hartjes followed with another single. Wundinger scored Nickodem with a single and Gerz hit one over the wall tying the score. The winning run was scored in the seventh on Lubinski's hit, a base on balls to Hammen and a single by Nickodem. Hammen started in the field for Seymour, marking a sensational play to pull the Seymour team out of trouble.

Two Home Runs By Fritz Wegner Wreck Kaws, 10-6

Joe Peteka Driven From Mound by Indians In Third

BY DON ANDERSON
KAUKAUNA—Scoring five runs in each of the first and seventh innings and cutting a Kaukauna rally short in the eighth, Oshkosh won a Northern State league baseball game here yesterday afternoon, 10-6. It was the first home game for the Kaukauna team, played before a thin crowd.

Joe Peteka, Kaw pitcher, retired at the end of the third inning after Oshkosh got four hits in a row in the first, the last one a homer by Fritz Wegner. Peteka was replaced by Kelly whose place he took in center field. Wegner poled another homer over the fence in the seventh inning and batted in seven runs altogether.

The Kaws got their first run in the fourth when Powell scored on Zelinski's double. In the eighth inning, after Powell and Van Drasek had scored, Peteka changed his batting stance from right to left hand and pushed one over the right field fence, bringing in Zelinski ahead of himself. In the final inning, the local team scored its last run when Bowers, after smacking out a doubles, got home safely on Hable's error.

Wegner chose the critical moment again in cracking out his homer for the winning team in the seventh. Jungbauer, Fowler, and Hable had taken their bases on balls when he stepped up and whacked one out of the park. Sonnenleiter followed with a safe hit to center and scored on Kaulski's error.

Kozlowski, youthful Oshkosh southpaw, held the Kaws to seven hits while his team collected ten, four from Peteka and six from Kelly. Bowers, Kaw manager, and left fielder, got three of his team's hits, two of them doubles.

Mayor John Niesen of Kaukauna pitched and Mayor Arthur Schuetz of Manitowish, president of the league, caught the first ball in opening this city's baseball season.

Appleton High Squad Repeats As Valley Relay Champion

Terrors Victors In Three of Six Feature Races

Jones Sets Shot, Bixby Dash Record in Special Events

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
MANITOWOC—Scoring first in the three relay races for which it had pointed, first in the shot and the discus, first and second in the 100-yard dash and setting records in the shot and the century, Appleton High school track and field squad repeated as Fox River Valley conference relay champions here Saturday afternoon. The Terrors showed a powerful, well-balanced squad which led the scoring all afternoon, excepting a few minutes early in the meet. Appleton registered 82 points or 9 5-14 points more than its arch rival, Green Bay East, which finished second with 72 9-14 points. The teams split honors in the relays with each getting 48 points. East copped only two firsts but it had two seconds and two thirds while Appleton had three firsts, a second, third and fourth. The Terror edge over the Red Devils came in the special events where Appleton scored 64 points to 24 9-14.

Third honors in the meet went to Green Bay West with 53 9-14 points while Manitowoc was fourth with 24 1-7, thanks to a first in the medley relay where Ely Francis, the Manty miler, ran a great race; Oshkosh was fifth with 23 1-7 and Fond du Lac, competing for the first time in conference history, was sixth with 12 3-7. Sheboygan did not compete.

Set Two Records
 Appleton boys established two new records of the day. Vince Jones tossed the shot 51 feet, 1 inch, for first place and a record. The mark was 49 feet, 3 inches and was set by Gollomb, Oshkosh, in 1936. Howie Bixby set a new record in the 100-yard dash when he was clocked in 10.1 seconds. The old mark was 10.2 seconds. Bixby and Lorberloft, East, equaled the 102 mark in their heats. However, the coaches all complained that the wind was bothering their broad jumpers and if that was the case then the breeze can be credited with helping Bixby in the century for the runners came down the stretch with the wind.

A third record was hung up by Rickaby, East, when he pole vaulted 11 feet, 6 inches. The old mark was 11 feet, 5 inches and was established by Don Johnston, Appleton. Appleton had a couple pleasing experiences in the special events and one disappointment. Karl Bohnsack returned to competition in the pole vault and despite the fact he had been out only a few days, took second place. Don Sadler was the other surprise for the red head copped a second place in the 100-yard dash literally chasing Bixby across the tape. Not only that but he ran second to Bixby in his heat. The disappointment was in the broad jump where the Terrors failed to get their usual points.

The various events:
Third in Shuttle Relay
 Shuttle relay—The shuttle relay, featuring four boys running the 120-yard high hurdles, saw Appleton take a third place which was considered by Terror followers as sufficient. Green Bay East took first as was expected and West was second with Fondy fourth and Oshkosh fifth. The time of the winner was 54.9 seconds. Appleton's quartet was Don Rohloff, Barney Meyers, Glen Bowers and Ken Slatery. Rohloff and Meyers were developed especially for the race and did well. Bowers and Slatery are the two Terror hurdlers and turned in their best exhibits this season.

Half mile relay—Appleton won the half mile relay, the last event on the program, running in the section with least competition, in 1 minute, 37.4 seconds, more than six seconds faster than the second place East Bays. West was third, Oshkosh fourth and Manitowoc fifth. Don Sadler started Appleton on its way by stepping in front of the field. Barney Meyers continued in second place despite the fact he was wheeled into the event only last week, while Jack Sellers and Howie Bixby really turned on the heat.

Five mile relay—Appleton pointed for this race during the week but was skeptical and the victory was one of the sweetest of the meet. The time was 3 minutes, 44.6 seconds. East was second, West third, Fondy fourth and Manitowoc fifth. Appleton's lineup saw Edward Witter run the first quarter mile in fairly good time and in second place. Fred Oliver then took the baton and picked up the distance and Glenn Bowers got the Terror out in front after which Jack Sellers gave an exhibition of his best 440.

Mantle Wins Medley
 Medley relay—Manitowoc was done to take the medley and it did with Ely Francis running the mile and picking up the ground his mates had lost. He ran a 4:30 plus pretty fair lead. Kay was second, East third, Appleton fourth and Fond du Lac fifth. The time was 8 minutes and 7.1 seconds. Appleton ran in 8:40. Sonny Flax ran the 220 and trailed but Lawrence Huebner, a 440 runner, picked up the distance and Ed Pruett staged a nice race and showed a final 100-yard sprint in the half mile to give Kay Rogers a pretty fair lead. Kay was unable to hold back the challenge of Green Bay East. Appleton ran in the second division of the race; Manitowoc was in the first.

Two-mile relay—Green Bay East copped the 2-mile relay while Appleton's squad surprised and pleased with a second. West was third, Oshkosh fourth and Fond du Lac fifth. The winning time was 9 minutes, 54.4 seconds. George Swamp

Lawrence Tracksters Again Win State College Crown

Here are a few of the Appleton High school tracksters who figured in the Terror victory at the Manitowoc relay Saturday afternoon. Vince Jones, top, pushed the shot 51 feet, 1 inch for a new conference record and one inch short of tying the state record. He also copped a first in the discus.

In the lower picture are the Terror sprinters. They are, left to right, Don Sadler, Glenn Bowers, Jack Sellers and Howie Bixby. In the order named they ran first in the 440-yard relay, one of the Terror first places. Bixby also set a new record in the 100-yard dash with Sadler placing a close second. All four of the boys figured heavily in the Appleton scoring one or another being on every relay team except the medley. (Post-Crescent Photos.)

Watson's Work Features Big Ten Track Tournney

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
CHICAGO—(U)—Write the name of Michigan's big Bill Watson in the Olympic future book as the boy to keep world decathlon honors safe for Uncle Sam when 1940 rolls around.

The powerful Negro youth from Saginaw, Mich., more than six feet tall, weighing just short of 200 pounds, and maneuvering his abundant muscles with the grace of a trapeze performer, gave the first official sample of his track and field prowess in the Big Ten meet Friday and Saturday at Ann Arbor, and it was enough to mark him as the country's outstanding all-around star of the next few years.

He won the shot put with a new conference record heave of 50 feet, 104 inches, showed the field how in the discus with a 133 foot, 91 inch performance that was less than two feet away from the meet record, and bounced 24 feet, 41 inches away from the take-off board for his third victory. At that, it was only a sample, for he operated under the handicap of a leg injury.

Ken Doherty, assistant to varsity coach Charlie Hoyt, felt that Watson could have qualified for the United States decathlon squad last year had it been deemed advisable to let him try it, and is certain the big boy can do it in 1940.

Short Notes
 Watson's three firsts contributed heavily to Michigan's victorious total of 60 points in winning its 15th conference title. . . Indiana, the defending champion, was second at 44 points, 21 turned in by the great distance boys—Don Lash, Tom Deckard and Jimmy Smith. . . Ohio State had 42 for third. . . Illinois was fourth with 24. . . Wisconsin Was Fifth With 23.

The amazing accomplishment of 14 seconds flat for the 120-yard high hurdles by Michigan's Bob Osgood probably will be offered for approval as a world record. . . It was one-tenth of a second faster than Forrest (Spec) Towns' accepted mark—and was made in a driving rain. . . Ohio State's Charlie Beebe and Mel Walker also set conference records—Beebe with 1:52.2 for the half mile, Walker with 6 feet, 62 inches in the high jump.

Strategy helped Lash to his third straight victories in both the mile and two mile. . . Fancy pace-setting maneuvers done in relays by Deckard and Smith aided Lash to triumph over Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske in the mile, and some more of the same brought Lash and Deckard home ahead of the Badger star in the longer race. . . George Halchrow of Chicago won only four-tenths of a second slower than the meet mark in winning the 440-yard run in 47.8 seconds. . . Sam Stoller, the Wolverine sprinter who was taken to the Olympic games but not used, won the 100 yard dash in :09.8 over a soaked track.

Little Chute in Third Straight League Victory

cassen looked badly swinging at a high fast one and Behr tossed him another in the same place which "Snare" proceeded to paste into right center for a double. Ellis slapped a high fly to deep center and "Snare" legged it for third base despite Zinth's great throw.

With Jack Lamers at the plate, Behr uncorked his first wild pitch of the afternoon and Lucassen scored for the Chutes. He probably would have scored a moment later, anyway, for Lamers lofted to deep center.

Peotter Safe at Plate
 Bill Peotter then came to the plate and hit a slow grounder to LeMay at second which Buck bobbled and got to first too late. Dombroski then singled sharply to right when Stoegbauer let the ball get away from him for an error. Peotter legged it for home and scoring sliding. Versteegen filed to end the inning.

The Kimberly half of the fourth saw Horn single to center and take second when Dombrowski played the ball badly, and move to third on a fly and die there.

Little Chute scored its final run in the first of the sixth. Ellis started the inning with a single through short. He then stole second base and went to third when Dumphy, playing second for Kimberly, went into right field after Peotter's fly, and couldn't get the ball to third fast enough. While pitching to Dombroski, Behr unleashed another wild heave and Ellis scored standing up.

The last of the sixth saw the Chutes turn in their first double play. With one down, Strick on second and Horn on first, Cashman hit a grounder almost over second base. Ellis stumbled over the ball, picked it up while stepping on second and tossed to first to retire the side.

The eighth saw the second twinning. Strick was on first and when Bowman hit to Versteegen, the third sacker turned and tossed to second and Ellis heaved to first to complete the play. The third double play was in the ninth. With Cashman on first, LaDuke, batting for Behr, grounded to Weisgerber who tossed to second and Ellis tossed to first to end the Papermakers' last hopes of a rally.

Little Chute appeared headed for a run in the ninth when Jack Lamers and Peotter hit successive singles but fly balls by Wildenberg, Versteegen and B. Lamers ended the ball game.

Joe Louis Improves in Public Training Bout

Kenosha—(U)—Sparring five 1-round heats with as many opponents, Joe Louis, Negro heavyweight for Jimmy Braddock's heavyweight title, turned in a spotty performance before more than 1,000 spectators who watched him at the Lake Front stadium yesterday. It was his second outdoor, public performance. Plainly disturbed by the chilly breezes which swept off Lake Michigan, the Negro challenger was alternately flashy and sluggish. His timing, however, was faster and more accurate than that displayed in his workout Saturday. He let his defense drop on occasions, and his sparring partners bounced in blows. The Brown Bomber weighs approximately 201 pounds, which his trainers say is about his best fighting weight.

Sam Leete Cops 3 Firsts; Sets High Jump Mark

Kapp Garners Pair of Firsts, Joe Graf Ties Record in 100

BY ART TICHENOR
BELOIT—With versatile Sam Leete leading the van, Lawrence college repeated as state college champion on the track and in the field here Saturday. The final score was Lawrence 69, Carroll 46, Beloit 33, and Ripon 16. The Vikings, favorites from the start, garnered nine of the fifteen possible first places plus a whole pile of seconds, thirds, and fourths. The two-mile run was the only event in which the Vikings failed to earn at least three points.

Three new records were established—in the high jump, high hurdles and the half mile. Sam Leete of Lawrence set the first two marks by excelling his own high jump record of last season of 5 feet 10 1/2 inches. The new mark is 6 feet, 3 inches. He also shaved eight-tenths of a second off of the old high hurdle mark to lower it to 15 seconds flat.

The third record was set in the best individual performance of the day by Art Buck of Carroll. Buck lowered the 880 mark to 1 minute, 58.5 seconds by running the first quarter mile of his race in 57 seconds. Grode of Lawrence ran the best half mile of his career to finish in second place just a few steps behind the winner.

Five Viking thin-clads now hold eight individual state championships plus the relay supremacy. The men are Evan Vandewalle in the 440, Joe Graf in the 100 yard dash, Ed Fritz in the javelin, Junior Kapp in the shot and discus, and Sam Leete in the high jump and both hurdle races.

Summary of Events
100 yard dash—In the mile Goebel of Carroll took the lead from the ailing Schubert on the fourth lap and pulled away for a victory. Schubert, feeling ill after the long bus trip, was closely followed by Grode of Lawrence and Crow of Beloit. The time was 4 minutes, 30 seconds.

440 yard dash—Fighting every inch of the way, Evan Vandewalle took the quarter mile away from Gimla of Carroll. Vandewalle showed much better form than he did a week ago at the Midwest meet. Phillips of Beloit beat out Gerlach of Lawrence for third place in a close finish. Vandewalle's time was 53 seconds.

100 yard dash—Joe Graf, sophomore sprinter, took a wide lead over the field to tie the existing state record of ten flat held by Doug Hyde, Lawrence. He was trailed by Sauer of Beloit, Gates of Beloit, and Clarke of Carroll. The Midwest champion took the lead at the 30 yard mark and won going away.

120-yard high hurdles—Almost shaving the timbers as he topped them, Sam Leete led Art Buck of Carroll to the tape for a new state record in this event. He clipped eight-tenths of a second of the old mark of 15.3 seconds. Pray of Ripon took a fourth behind Volger of Beloit. The new time is 15 seconds flat.

880-yard run—Art Buck of Carroll ran a superb race to set a new record in the half. Setting the pace all the way for a 57 second quarter, he finished in 1 minute, 58.5 seconds. The old record was 2:00.2. It was established by Jerry Hecker of Lawrence last year. Grode of Lawrence, caught in the pack at the first turn, pulled up rapidly on the back stretch of the first lap to second position. Dogging Buck's heels the rest of the way he was never challenged by Goebel of Carroll or Klock of Beloit who finished in third and fourth.

220 yard dash—Sauer of Beloit, after taking a trimming from Graf in the century, passed the soph Viking in the stretch and held a very, very slim lead at the tape. Gates of Beloit and Chuck Gerlach of Lawrence finished as three and four. Sauer's time was 22.5 seconds.

Five mile run—Heimke of Carroll set the no-all of the way at 17:30. He was followed by Ripon successfully challenging Ross of Beloit several times during the second and third laps. As Zarling, second, and Searies, third, both of Ripon, turned on the heat on lap seven Ross began to fade and was forced back to fourth position at the finish. Heimke's time was 10 minutes 37 seconds.

220 low hurdles—In his second straight victory of the day Viking Leete beat Volger of Beloit some two and a half or three yards. Gimla of Carroll and Powers of Beloit were hard on Gimla's heels for third and fourth. The winner's time was 23.2 seconds.

880 yard relay—The Vikings pulled a real surprise by taking the relay from Beloit. Vandewalle, starting for the Blue and White, took the lead at the curve. Beloit took over the pace when Vandewalle and Leete made a poor pass at the end of the first 220. Going into the second turn as second man, Leete came out into the straightaway with a slight lead, made a perfect pass to Gerlach. Holding a two yard lead through the third part of the race Gerlach passed to Joe Graf who came sprinting home some four yards out in front. Beloit finished second ahead of Ripon with Carroll trailing. The winner's time was 1 minute, 32.2 seconds.

Kapp Wins 2 Firsts
Shot put—In very close competition, Kapp of Lawrence took first over Knutson of Carroll with a heave of 39 feet, 10 1/2 inches. Joe

HELP VIKES WIN TITLE

Lawrence college track and field team Saturday repeated as state college champion when it defeated Ripon, Carroll and Beloit at Beloit. Two of the lads who figured in the scoring are shown here. Above is Junior Kapp, Appleton, who won firsts in the shot and discus. His loss in the latter event was five inches short of the record. On the right is Joe Graf, sprinter, who won first in the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds equalling the nine-year-old record of Doug Hyde, also of Lawrence. Graf also won second in the 220-yard dash.

Dr. Max Goeres Wins Dental Golf Honors

Dr. Max Goeres, Appleton, won low gross honors in the annual Fox River Valley Dental Society golf tournament at Butte des Morts course Sunday afternoon. He turned in a 76. Dr. E. McMillan, Green Bay, was second with a 79. Low net honors went to Dr. J. J. Gilling, Green Bay, with 92-23-69, while a Dr. Reinhardt, Fond du Lac, was second with 88-17-70.

Dr. S. J. Kleehn, Chicago, formerly of Appleton, won the blind bogey prize. About 50 dentists competed.

Mill Superintendents Hold Golf Tournament

C. J. McMahon and J. J. Plank, Appleton, finished third and fourth in the golf tournament staged by the American Pulp and Paper Mill Superintendents' association, north-west division, Saturday afternoon at Butte des Morts Country club. About 100 players competed.

D. W. Beisel finished first in the low gross division with an 81 while R. Bauman was carding an 83. McMahon shot an 85 with Plank getting an 86. Jack Burkham, Mike Parvaka and Bob Weber had 72's to tie for first place in the low net division with H. W. Sherman, getting 73.

Maerzwiler, also of Lawrence, won third with Wells of Beloit fourth. Discus—Kapp had a double victory for the day when he again beat Knutson of Carroll in the discus. Meyer of Beloit was third, and Evans of Ripon was fourth. Kapp's best throw was not his winning throw because he fouled by stepping out of the circle. The winning throw was 130 feet 5 1/2 inches. This is just five inches short of the present state record.

Javelin throw—Ed Fritz took another first for the Vikings and by so doing retained his crown as state champ. Evans of Ripon was second over McCabe of Carroll. Burton of Lawrence tossed the spear for better than 145 for fourth. Fritz's best toss was 172 feet, 9 inches.

Fole vault—Barnes of Carroll took the event for the second time in succession. Cliff Osen, Lawrence's only nine letter man in a decade, took his farewell of Viking athletics by clearing 11 feet for second place. Third and fourth went to Knoblauch of Carroll and Gorn of Ripon.

High jump—Jumping to his third place in the meet, Leete of Lawrence cleared 6 feet, 3 inches for a new state record. Wolchen of Beloit went out at 5 feet, 11 inches for second. Pray of Ripon and Gibson of Beloit took third and fourth respectively.

Broad jump—Gimla, star of the Carroll track squad, jumped 21 feet 9 1/2 inches to beat Graf of Lawrence. Ev Vandewalle took third ahead of Pray of Ripon.

Indiana Starts Drive for Title

Chicago—(U)—Indiana, darkhorse of the Big Ten baseball title race, makes its stretch drive this week for all or a part of the 1937 championship.

Illinois, with eight victories in nine starts, will finish its schedule against Northwestern, which has won three and lost four. Defeat for Illinois, which plays its games Wednesday, would give Indiana a chance for a clear claim to the title by winning its double bill with Ohio State.

The only game scheduled for today was Ohio State at Purdue.

Appleton 15, Grand Chute 10.

GIESEN Taverns, Appleton, continued their powerful hitting at the expense of the Grand Chute Merchants Sunday in the Northern Valley league collecting 15 hits off Burton, Wickesberg and Priebe for a 15 to 10 victory. Rube Murphy was on the mound for the Taverns and gave up 13 hits although he never was in serious trouble. The win put the Taverns in second place.

Appleton started its scoring in the first inning by turning in four runs only to have Grand Chute tie the count in the second. Not to be outdone the Taverns came back for another four markers in the last of the second frame. The Chuters sent two men home in the third and Appleton put the game on ice by pounding in five runs in the fourth inning.

A rally by the Chuters resulted in four runs but the spree was checked when Herb Siegwart went to the mound for Appleton. Battering honors went to Bob Cotton and Ray Crane with three safeties each. Cotton with two doubles drove in five runs in two trips to the plate. Melvin Pope placed a homer over the center-field fence for the longest hit of the game.

Van den Boom, Bay pitcher, fanned 11 men but Buster Brown, Eagle flinger, kept seven hits well scattered while his teammates were bunting theirs for a win.

The Drugs coined their first run in the second inning on Fitchett's single and Paloski's bobbie. They scored their final run in the fourth on a one base blow, a walk, a sacrifice hit and an error.

Menasha dented the rubber for the first time in the fourth on Badger Nadeloney's mighty triple and Becker's one base knock.

They finished their scoring in the fifth when they counted twice on two singles, an error and a stolen base.

NEW LONDON—The Knapsack Brews defeated the Shawano Indians, 7 to 3, on the home diamond here yesterday afternoon and chalked up their second win in the Wolf Valley league.

The feature hit of the game was the first home run of the season here by Pete Westphal, burly pitcher and fielder, who played the latter post yesterday. With New London well ahead in the seventh inning, 6 to 1, he cracked a 400-foot drive that placed the ball over the fence and into the street. He also got two singles to top the New London hitters.

Demming had a good day at bat for the Brews, getting two hits, scoring two runs and driving in two runners with a double and single.

Becker, Westphal hurler Becker pitched seven innings and retired with a sore arm although he had little trouble putting down the Shawano batters. Westphal took over the pitching in the eighth and retired the side in the order, allowing no hits in the last two innings.

The big stickler for Shawano was Schmidt, first baseman, who got four consecutive hits in five times at bat.

The Brews scored two runs in the first inning and Shawano tied it up in the second with two converted on three hits. Magulski was hit with a pitched ball and brought in the leading run for the Brews in the fourth inning when Demming hit a 2-bagger. Three hits in the fifth netted another run and two more in the sixth gave the local club a favorable margin. After the Indians pushed one man across the plate on three hits in the seventh inning, Westphal stepped up and sent a homer across the fence for the last score of the day.

Wauwapa will entertain the Knapsack Brews next Sunday. . . Yesterday's box score:

Terrors Victors In Three of Six Feature Races

Bowers moved up, however, and when he passed to Sellers the Terrors were in front again. The pass to Bixby was perfect and the latter breezed around the bend and home for first place by inches.

Special Events
100-yard dash—Bixby won the century for Appleton in record time, 10.1 seconds, with Don Sadler chasing him across the tape. Petri, West, was third, Lorberloff, East, fourth and Noll, Oshkosh, fifth.

The latter, incidentally, is the runner who twice beat Bixby at Neenah, a couple weeks ago. Coach Joseph Shields tried a little strategy in the heats and before the finals were over the strategy was even better than Joe figured. He ran Sadler in the same heat with Bixby, figuring the other schools would steal a march on them. Sadler qualified so easily he ran second to Bix in the heat despite the record tying time and then ran second in the finals.

Shot put—Vinc Jones set a new record and won first for Appleton with 51 feet, 1 inch. Tornow, West, was second, Slattery, Appleton, and Messenger, East, tied for third and fourth and Beduhn, Manitowoc, was fifth. Slattery tossed 41 feet, 10 inches. He had a 43-foot heave but stepped over the ring.

Discus—Vinc Jones won first for Appleton with a toss good for 113 feet, 2 inches but all was not so cheerful during the afternoon. Jones failed to join the qualifiers until his last trial. Up to that time his best was 97 feet and at least 100 was needed to qualify. Deville, East, was second, Beduhn, Manitowoc, third, Slattery, Appleton, with 104 feet, 1 inch, fourth, and Tornow, West, fifth.

East in High Jump
High jump—Rickaby, East, won the high jump at 5 feet, 6 1/2 inches. Hammes, West, was second while Coddington, West, and Slattery, Appleton, were tied for third and fourth. Fifth was a seven-way tie but Appleton didn't figure in it.

Pole vault—Rickaby, East, won first at 11 feet, 6 1/2 inches as was expected. Karl Bohnsack took a second for Appleton going out at 10 1/2 feet. Schultz, Manitowoc, Edritz, Oshkosh and Hammes, West, tied for the other points. Earl McKee, Appleton entry, failed to qualify going out at 9 feet, 6 inches. Rickaby's height set a new record.

Broad jump—Appleton slipped in the broad jump which went to Petri, West, at 20 feet, 3/4 inch. Fredrickson, East, was second with Sellers, Appleton, taking third at 19 feet, 9 inches. Rickaby, East, fourth, and Bohnsack, Appleton, fifth, with 19 feet, 2 inches. The wind bothered the jumpers.

New London Third and Neenah Fourth in N. E. W. Conference Track Meet

BY DICK DAVIS
NEENAH—Shawano Indians went on the cinder path here Saturday afternoon and won 65 points for the track and field championship of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference. West De Pere totaled 38 1/2 points to nose out New London with 36 1/2 while Neenah was fourth with 22 1/2. Kaukauna fifth with 15 and Oconto a poor sixth with three points.

Van Sistine, West DePere, broke the conference pole vault record by topping the bar at 10 feet, 11 1/4 inches and Hartman, Shawano, and Peterson, Kaukauna, tied for a new conference record in the 120-yard high hurdles by running it in 15.8 seconds in their respective heats. Use Education in Service of God, Man, Seniors Told

Religious Spirit Adds Character to Education, Speaker Says

New London—The "Limitations and Advantages of Secular Education" was the topic of the Rev. W. E. Pankow in his baccalaureate address to 100 graduating high school seniors and 500 assembled parents at the Washington High school auditorium last evening.

Education is advantageous only if put to use in the service of God and man, the pastor admonished. A religious spirit adds character to education, gives it a true purpose and enlightens the student to the proper application of his knowledge, he declared. Brilliant minds may be trained to benefit mankind in research and discovery, but they also may be trained for criminality, he pointed out.

The points of the Rev. Mr. Pankow's talk were illustrated by excerpts from the life of Moses and a comparison of the work of the early Egyptians with modern ideas of progress.

Musical numbers were provided by Miss Luella Andrews with several piano selections, and the high school mixed chorus group. Commencement exercises will be held in the auditorium Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock with the Honorable Judge Henry Grass of Green Bay as the scheduled speaker.

Initiate 46 Candidates Into Knights of Columbus

New London — The order of the Knights of Columbus should serve as the bulwark of the Catholic laity to preserve the freedom of religion and speech for the generations to come, Daniel H. Grady, Portage attorney and regent of the University of Wisconsin, told more than 200 knights and their ladies at a 6:30 banquet at the American Legion clubhouse last evening. Religion is the dominating spiritual influence in the world today as it always has been and is the single greatest influence against the atheisms which are being forced on some peoples of the world today, the attorney declared.

The banquet climaxed an afternoon of initiation activities at the Catholic parish hall at which 46 candidates from Appleton, Kaukauna, Clintonville, New London and Stevens Point were taken into the order.

Police have warned milk haulers to keep off the main part of the road when they park while waiting their turn at the condensary.

Legion Helping Nation Progress, Howitt Asserts

Varied Program Helping Shape America's Future, He Maintains

Fremont—Reviewing the march of progress in America, George R. Howitt, national committeeman of the American Legion, Milwaukee, told a large gathering here Sunday afternoon that he was glad the American Legion has shared in that march during this century.

Howitt spoke from a platform on the school grounds at the outdoor program of the third annual statewide fishing party of the American Legion.

"Progress has required courage of a high order and has necessitated sacrifice even to death for liberty," Howitt declared. "The American Legion, along with other veterans organizations, were represented well."

"The constitution is as strong today as 150 years ago," Howitt said, "and freedom of speech, of the press, of religious worship are stronger here than on any other place on earth today. This has been assured in a large part by comrades of yesterday and of today."

Out of this march of progress has come responsibility for all of us as citizens to do our part, he said. The American Legion is doing its part for the destiny of future America through its varied program.

National Defense Answering the charge that the American Legion is a militaristic organization, the speaker asserted that this country will not be safe without adequate national defense. Had America been prepared in 1915 and 1916, there wouldn't be as many comrades lying in Flanders Fields today, he said.

"Above the bitterness of hatred against war," Howitt continued, "I place love and loyalty to this country which must be instilled in our youth of today."

"That is what the legion is trying to help bring about so that should a future Lincoln or Wilson, or other man of destiny need men to protect their country, those citizens of tomorrow will not hesitate to follow such a future man of destiny."

A huge parade led by the 26-piece Boys of the American Legion Bugle and Drum Corps, Wausau, marched from the bridge to the school grounds before the opening of the program. The Weyauwega High School band, Outagamie county's 40 at 3, several hundred legionnaires, and auxiliary members completed the parade.

First speaker on the outdoor program, Department Commander Henry C. Oakley, Oshkosh, explained the three-point program of the legion for peace in America.

1. Strict neutrality policies must be maintained.

2. Universal service in time of war must be insisted upon so that no one can profit at the expense of others.

3. An adequate national defense must be maintained to protect the homeland, but not strong enough to carry on a war of aggression.

Those are cardinal points in the legion program against war, he said.

"Old John" Dickey, Civil war veteran guest of honor, gave a bit of advice by saying it is up to ourselves to make life what it is and to live long. He related an anecdote told a friend who worried into illness which prescribed reading a chapter of the Bible each day for three weeks as a cure.

A hundred legionnaires and friends attended a pike dinner at Hotel Fremont Sunday noon following the business sessions of the annual eighth district conference.

Mr. Oakley reviewed progress made during the last year during the dinner. He said membership had increased from 29,986 in 1935 to 31,811 in 1937, and this after the bonus had been paid.

Kenney's Address Explaining the two main principles of the American Legion at the Sunday morning business session in the village hall auditorium, department Vice Commander William Kenney, Marshfield, said that rehabilitation service work placed to less fortunate comrades must be carried on with renewed vigor.

Band, Orchestra Win First Places At District Meet

New London Group Takes Part for First Time In Class B

New London—The New London High school band returned from the West DePere district music concert festival Saturday with a first place rating in Class B in music, second in sight reading and second in parade, it was reported by M. S. Zahrt, band director. The orchestra won a first rating in Class D and the mixed chorus second in Class C.

The competition was entirely new to all the groups. The band has placed first in Class C the past two years but this was the first attempt in Class B. Several overtures played in competition were taken from the Class A music lists and were played by the same bands that placed first in Class A. It was the first competition for the orchestra and chorus in their respective classes.

In parade ratings, Class A and B entries are grouped into one Class. It was explained. In competition with the Washington High school aggregation in parade and Class B music were bands from the schools of Kaukauna and Algoma, first place state winners last year, and East DePere, first district and second place state winners last year.

Official criticisms of the judges on the performance of each of the three groups are expected at the school in a very short time.

500 Rural Grade Pupils In Chorus Music Festival

New London—About 500 rural grade students of Waupaca county schools participated in a chorus music festival at Washington High school here Saturday morning and afternoon. Carl H. Bacher, county superintendent of schools, planned the affair. Students brought their own lunches and coffee was served in the high school gym at noon by the domestic science classes under Miss Gertrude Hoffman.

Ensemble groups were heard in the auditorium starting at 9 o'clock in the morning and in the afternoon. Professor E. B. Gordon of the University of Wisconsin commented on the vocal music and led community singing. The program continued until after 4 o'clock.

Each chorus consisted of eight persons representing a township, school district or community club in the county. The program was arranged in cooperation with the Federated Rural clubs and several adult choruses were heard. No bands appeared as all were taking part in one of the district concert festivals in the state on Saturday.

Stadler Proposal Is Included in Measure

Waupaca—At the spring session of the county board a resolution was adopted upon the recommendation of County Treasurer L. J. Stadler granting taxpayers who failed to take care of obligations before March 15 and who failed to file affidavits for extension of payments without extra charge to July 1, the privilege of making such payments before July 1 without the additional 6 per cent in penalties and interest.

Mr. Stadler also recommended to the legislature this spring, that when they pass their bill to extend taxes to July 1, the charge begin with July 1, instead of going back to Jan. 1, as previously required by law. (This has been a reduction and saving to the delinquent taxpayer of about 5 per cent and has always been voted favorably by the county board). The recommendation has been incorporated in the bill and passed, and it is now necessary to take the matter before the board to get this reduction.
